RUMANIA JOINS WITH GREECE IN REFUSING TO TAKE PART IN WAROfficially Declares the Government Intends Preserving Strictest Neutrality.

ITALY IS NEAR DECISION

Reported on Verge of Joining Ar-Allies in Balkans; Teu-tons Claim Headway.Allied Troops Leave Saloniki, for Serbian Front.

London, Oct. 16.—Rumania has joined Greece in declining to enlarge the conflict in the near east by declaring officially that the Rumanian government intends to preserve strict neutrality. This step followed close on intimations from unofficial German sources that it was time that Bucharest gave more definite indications of Rumania's stand in view of the latest developments in the Balkans. From a German source also comes a report that British and French ministers are leaving Athens. But this report is discredited here, and it is without any other confirmation.

Unofficial reports from Petrograd say the Germans appear to be on the defensive along the entire line, except that section near Dvinsk which, it is said, they have been ordered to capture at any cost.

Russians Make Offensive Attacks.
Berlin, however, officially reports Russian attacks not only before Dvinsk but at a number of other places, and adds that they have been repulsed. These attacks were all comprised within the army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, which is taken to mean that the Russians have assumed something in the nature of a general offensive along the front, of which Dvinsk forms a vital salient.

Along the western front many isolated bomb attacks have occurred with varying fortunes. Italy is again officially reported to be on the verge of joining her allies in the Balkan campaign. While the French and British are still landing troops at Saloniki for the army which will be under the supreme command of General Serrail, the former commander-in-chief of the army of the Orient, the Germans announce that their forces continue to make headway against the Serbians, whose positions south of Semendria have been stormed.

Bulgarians Force Frontier.
The Bulgarians are said to have forced the frontier ridges at several points between Negotin and Strumika. That Bulgaria does not anticipate any hostile action on the part of Greece is indicated by advices from Bucharest that Greece has purchased large amounts of wheat from Rumania which will be permitted passage through Bulgarian territory.

Allied Troops Leave for Serbia.
Troops of the Entente Allies have left Saloniki for the Serbo-Bulgarian frontier, according to a news dispatch from Athens. The allied forces are said to have started Saturday for this Serbian front where the Bulgarians are reported to be making progress to their assault on the defenses of the Serbians.

In the western theatre of the war a vigorous counter attack delivered by the French in the Vosges enabled them to re-capture all their positions on the summit of Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, according to the latest official statement from Paris. The French also claim to have taken a small fort previously occupied by the Germans. An official statement from Berlin claims that a German attack, made with the object of improving the Teutonic position on Hartmanns-Weilerkopf was entirely successful, the opposing forces suffering severe losses.

WILL PUT QUESTION TO GREY

Liberal Member to Inquire of Government's Attitude as to Dardanelles.
London, Oct. 16.—Upon the re-assembling of the House of Commons Tuesday Robert L. Doughty, liberal member of parliament for Hanley, will ask Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary of state for foreign affairs, whether the Russian government still attaches the same importance to the Dardanelles operations as it did when the British ambassador in Petrograd stated that the operations had been undertaken at Russia's request for the purpose of drawing a Turkish force from the Caucasus. The question is designed to bring out if Lord Milner's suggestion of the evacuation of the Gallipoli peninsula finds any official support. No evidence of such support is as yet apparent.

MINISTERS TO LEAVE

Russian and Italian Diplomats Prepare to Sall From Greece, is Report.

Amsterdam, (via London), Oct. 13.—According to a dispatch from Athens to the Cologne Gazette the ministers of Russia and Italy are preparing to leave Greece. The families of the diplomats, the message adds, probably will leave the Grecian capital today on a warship bound for Italy.

HARD FIGHTING ON ALL BATTLEFRONTS25,000 Teutons Are Reported Killed in Serbian Campaign

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS

Bulgarian Ports on Aegean Sea Blockaded—Germans Repulse British Attack in West—Australia Much Exercised.

Hard fighting has been in progress on all the important battle fronts, the latest official reports show, not the least desperate engagements having been fought in Serbia where Berlin declares the Teutonic invasion is making further progress.

Field Marshal von Mackensen, directing the Serbian drive, reports the storming of Vranova mountain, south of Semendria, and Smolnino village, east of Fozarevac, while Bulgarian troops, pressing on the Serbian border to the south, are declared to have forced frontier passes at several points and to have taken the eastern forts of Zagazgar, some five miles over the border in Serbia and about 40 miles north-east of Nish.

Special dispatches from Nish estimate the Teutonic losses in the Serbian campaign up to Thursday night, last, as 25,000 killed and 60,000 wounded. It is declared in these advices that a German army which attempted to turn the Serbian right wing at Semendria was driven back into the marshes of the Danube, near the Zembrandra fortress. Heavy reinforcements for the Germans in the Fozarevac section are reported on the way.

Great Britain's declaration of war on Bulgaria has been followed by a declaration of blockade of the Bulgarian ports on the Aegean sea. The seaports affected include Dedaschach, Porto Lagos, Maronia and Mecri. Neutral vessels were given 48 hours to leave the blockaded area.

On the western front, the Germans record the repulse of a British attack northeast of Vermelles and the blocking of French assaults in the Champagne district, notably east of Aubigny where the French are declared to have lost more than 600 prisoners and three machine guns. German troops are also declared to have improved their positions on Hartmanns-Weilerkopf in the Vosges and to have foiled a French attempt to re-take positions south of Leintz. Paris reports the repulse of German attacks north of Reillon in Lorraine, and between the Ling and the Schtratsannele in the Vosges.

Berlin's account of operations in the east is confined entirely to the recording of repulses of Russian attacks west of Evinsk and at other points toward the northern end of the line, and in the region of Smorgon.

Australia is apparently much exercised over the suggestion made recently in the house of commons that the Dardanelles enterprise be abandoned. A Sydney newspaper is quoted as declaring that such a decision would be "evidence of gross incompetence and cowardice, for which hardly any punishment would be too great."

The sinking of a Russian coal schooner by a German aeroplane in the Gulf of Riga is announced in Berlin newspapers.

MEXICAN MURDERER OF BRITISH RANCHER AND AMERICAN DEAD

General Plerro, Second in Command of Villa Army, Drowned.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16.—Official announcement was made today at Juarez of the death of General Plerro, second in command of the Villa army, who was held responsible for the killing of William Benton, a British ranchman, and Anton Bush, an American, at Juarez about two years ago. The announcement stated merely that Plerro was drowned while fording a lake near Villa Ahumada.

Plerro, whose career was stained with innumerable murders, was one of the most picturesque leaders produced by the Mexican revolution. He was formerly a railroad brakeman, and later a bandit, robbing an express train at Lompasa, Mexico.

When the revolution broke out, Plerro joined Villa, and won the latter's esteem at the battles of Torreón and Zacatecas. Subsequently he became known as Villa's "right hand man."

One of Plerro's exploits as reported from the battlefield, was the shooting of more than 300 prisoners taken in battle. He was a large man physically, alert, cunning and apparently irresistible in the face of the enemy.

He is credited with having uncoupled a train in the face of deadly fire, preventing the arrival of Huerta reinforcements.

FORMER MINISTER FROM GREAT BRITAIN TO MEXICO IS DEAD.

Sir Lionel Carden Forced by Carranza to Leave Republic in 1914.

London, Oct. 16.—Sir Lionel Carden, British minister to Mexico from 1913 until August, 1914, when he was forced to leave Mexico City by General Carranza, after the overthrow of President Huerta, died here today.

Sir Lionel Edward Grenley Carden was born in County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1851. He was best known in this country as minister to Mexico, where he came into prominence following the assumption of power by General Huerta.

Sir Lionel became a factor in the relations between the United States and Mexico, when upon his arrival in Mexico City just after Huerta had imprisoned a number of deputies and declared a practical dictatorship he presented his credentials. This action was construed in some quarters as a virtual recognition of Huerta and the latter's action.

Sir Lionel figured later generally in the press of the United States through his reported criticism of the American government's Mexican policy.

16 BELIEVED KILLED
AS CAR TAKES PLUNGE

Part of Motor Train Goes Through Bridge Into Creek

Bodies of Ten Had Been Recovered
Last Night, Most of Whom Were Drowned—Only Four of 65 Occupants Unhurt.

Randolph, Kas., Oct. 16.—Sixteen persons are believed to have lost their lives when a passenger car of a Union Pacific motor train plunged through a bridge into Fancy creek, near here, today. Ten bodies had been recovered tonight and at least six more were believed to be in the mud and water-filled car. Most of the recovered dead, including five women and five men, were drowned. Of the 65 occupants of the motor train, only four escaped unhurt.

Many of the passengers were young women school teachers. All went into a heap when the car struck the bridge, weakened by three inches of rain, and plunged into the swollen creek.

A rescue of the passengers was extremely difficult and many were badly injured after they had been extricated from the half submerged car. It was necessary for the survivors to crawl up the sides of the car, using the window ledges and seats as the rungs of a ladder and many fell repeatedly after almost achieving success. Nearly all became unconscious from loss of blood or shock on finally reaching safety.

FOUR MEN KILLED AND FOUR INJURED IN GAS EXPLOSION.

Occurred in Bi-Product Plant of Coal Company, Near Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 16.—Four men were killed and four injured in a gas explosion in the bi-product plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, at Fairfield, near here tonight.

The dead are J. L. Donnelly, L. J. Wright, Perry Poor, and Bernhart, all employees.

The explosion occurred in a valve of a 45-inch gas main. The cause is not known.

Birmingham fire companies, assisting in fighting the fire that followed the explosion, and first aid corps and numerous physicians from the company's various plants, were on the scene within a few minutes.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 16.—Fifteen touchdowns and ten goals netted Vanderbilt a score of 100 to 0 against Henderson-Brown this afternoon, the visitors showing up unexpectedly weak.

Navy Yards to Perform Special Service for Whole Navy

Further Evidence of Purpose of Wilson Administration to Develop the Navy to Highest Point of Efficiency.

(Special Star Telegram.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Further evidence of the purpose of the Wilson administration to develop to the highest point the efficiency of the American navy came to light today when Secretary Daniels let it be known that in the future naval stations must be producers and not mere ornaments or repair plants. To this end a group of navy yards along the Atlantic seaboard have been chosen for special services to the navy as a whole.

Mr. Daniels stated today, for instance, that the following stations have been or would be required to engage in special production: Norfolk, mines and mine laying apparatus; Charleston, clothing for sailors; Pensacola, aircraft of all classes; Portsmouth, electrical machinery and appliances; Indian Head, powder manufacturing and gun tests; Washington, manufacture of guns; Philadelphia, equipment for marines; Newport, torpedoes.

The Norfolk yard also will be developed for the great repair yard of the navy system, and it is understood that the secretary will renew his request for the construction of the big dry dock there. This dry dock will be the largest on the Atlantic coast. The Norfolk yard last year produced more mines than any plant has turned out in the history of the navy.

Shelby will be put in the real city class after December 1. Upon that date the Postoffice Department will inaugurate city delivery mail service for the town that has been made famous by Representative Yates Webb. The service will start with two carriers.

The Postoffice Department has accepted the proposal of Messrs. Frame Bros. to lease new quarters for the postoffice at Southern Pines. The new office will be on the east side of State street, one-fourth of a block of Seventeenth street, South.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 16.—Georgia Tech had an easy time with Transylvania here today, defeating the Kentucky team at football 57 to 0. The tough back field apparently had little trouble skirting Transylvania's ends, scoring clearly and to see the impossibility of the continuance of such conditions.

Six of the eight companies of militia outside of Charleston, which yesterday were directed to hold themselves ready to respond to a call for service, still were under orders tonight.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The University of Pittsburgh completely outplayed the Carlisle Indians in their annual football game here, winning by a score of 45 to 0.

COMMITTEE DECLARES
HYDE IS THE NOMINEE

Majority Over Mayor Grace Was 128 Votes

Situation in Charleston was Quiet Yesterday—National Guardsmen and Naval Militia Remained on Duty Last Night.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 16.—Tristram T. Hyde, was declared the Democratic nominee for mayor of Charleston today, after the city executive committee had canvassed the votes of last Tuesday's election under guard of state troops. According to the official figures the nominee had a majority of 128 votes of Mayor John P. Grace.

Following yesterday's shooting affray in the committee room, in which one man was killed and four wounded, today passed quietly. A strict guard of the German artillery hall where the committee met was maintained by local troops and naval militia under Colonel E. M. Blythe. Credentials were inquired of all persons passing through Wentworth street and those entering the hall were searched for concealed weapons. Mayor Grace, Chief of Police Cantwell and Sheriff J. E. Martin were among those said to have been disarmed as they entered the committee room.

The ten Grace members withdrew from the meeting when the committee voted to sustain a protest in the matter of a box from Ward 10. The National guardsmen and the naval militia remained on duty tonight.

MANNING ISSUES ADDRESS

Tells People of Charleston to Have Self-Restraint and Calmness of Mind.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 16.—Governor Manning, who has kept in close touch with the Charleston situation all day, tonight issued an address to the people of that city urging upon them that "self-restraint and calmness of mind which will enable you to think clearly and to see the impossibility of the continuance of such conditions."

Six of the eight companies of militia outside of Charleston, which yesterday were directed to hold themselves ready to respond to a call for service, still were under orders tonight.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 16.—Georgia Tech had an easy time with Transylvania here today, defeating the Kentucky team at football 57 to 0. The tough back field apparently had little trouble skirting Transylvania's ends, scoring clearly and to see the impossibility of the continuance of such conditions.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The University of Pittsburgh completely outplayed the Carlisle Indians in their annual football game here, winning by a score of 45 to 0.

GOVERNMENT PLANS FOR EMPLOYERS TO ASSIST IN DEFENSE

Will be Asked to Let Employees
Train Two Months a Year for Three Years.

APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM

Besides Sixteen Capital Ships,
the Navy Proposes Many Smaller War Craft.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Employers throughout the United States—corporations, manufacturers, professional men, tradesmen and business men of all classes—will be asked to contribute, as their share in the national defense, permission for their employees to engage without serious financial loss in two months' military training during each of three years.

This is an essential part of the administration's plan for raising a citizen army of 800,000 men in six years which, with a regular army of 140,000 men and 130,000 reserves, would give a trained force, exclusive of state militia, of about 1,200,000 in the event of war.

The success of the plan, officials admit, depends not on the appropriations of Congress, for its cost will be comparatively small, but on the patriotic response of employees, to whom an appeal will be made to furnish as many men each year, at different seasons as they can spare and who wish to join the proposed continental army.

Would Attract Men to Enlist.
Administration officials are confident that even though it is proposed to enlist only 132,000 men a year in the continentals, or a total of nearly 800,000 for the first six year period, more than that number will be attracted by the outdoor life of a military camp if they could be assured by their employers that their positions would not be lost or their earnings seriously decreased. The proposed enlistment requires two months' service for each of three years, and liability for service during the remaining three years only in event of war.

The army plans for more than 1,000,000 trained men in six years and the navy's programme of ten dreadnoughts and six battle cruisers within five years, both of which will be presented to Congress with the endorsement of President Wilson were the absorbing topics of interest here today.

The proposed appropriation bill will be $132,000,000, or an increase of $72,000,000 over last year, and that of the navy is $126,000,000, a $65,000,000 increase. The total defense budget of nearly 400,000,000, authorized by the act of 1914, which it is understood, is to be raised from a return to certain tariff duties removed last year.

Navy Proposes Many Vessels.
Added details of the navy plan became known tonight. The five year programme included, besides the ten dreadnoughts and six battle cruisers, 85 coast submarines, 15 sea-going submarines, 50 destroyers, 15 scout cruisers, five gunboats. Two dreadnoughts will be built each year. Two battle cruisers will be built the first year, one the third year, two the fourth year and one the fifth year.

This plan was agreed upon in order that the appropriations out of the $600,000,000 fund to be expended for the ships during the five years might be evenly distributed through the various sessions of Congress. The first year's bill will provide $24,000,000 to complete ships already authorized, besides the new dreadnoughts and battle cruisers, and provide also for the construction of 25 coast submarines, five sea-going submarines, 15 destroyers, three scout cruisers, two gunboats, one fuel ship and one hospital ship; $2,000,000 for aircraft and for 10,000 additional men and 250 additional midshipmen at the United States naval academy.

Welcomed in Naval Circles.
The decision to increase the personnel was welcomed in naval circles, where it had been variously estimated that the navy is now from 10,000 to 18,000 men short of the complement necessary for ships built and building.

By authorizing 16 capital ships in the five-year programme, the American fleet, whose ships are completed, will be composed in 1925 of 33 dreadnoughts and battle cruisers in the fighting line and 13 battleships of the second line, or a total of 46 capital ships. This would be exclusive of nine battleships now in commission which will be superannuated in 1924.

Favorable Responses From All Participating in Pan-American Conference.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Favorable responses were received today from all the governments participating in the Pan-American conference which decided to recognize General Carranza, Secretary Lansing has called a meeting of the conference next Monday to arrange the form of recognition. Recognition probably will take the form of presentation of a note to General Carranza through Elias Arredondo, his representative here, who will go to Mexico to meet Carranza.

With the presentation of such a note an embargo on arms would go into effect against opposing factions and an ambassador or charge d'affaires would be sent to Mexico as soon as a selection could be made.

GAME AT WAKE FOREST HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

A. & M. College Eleven Wins
by Seven to Nothing.

Contest Witnessed by Largest Crowd
Ever Seen on Wake Forest
Grounds—W. F. C. Defeated
But Not Outplayed.

(Special Star Telegram.)
Wake Forest, N. C., Oct. 16.—In one of the hardest and closest contested games ever staged on the local field, Wake Forest this afternoon held the strong A. & M. eleven to a 7 to 0 score. The game was witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever been on the home grounds. Wake Forest showed a complete reversal of form over that in the last game against Carolina and, while they were defeated, they were not outplayed.

A. & M. scored from the 30-yard line in the second quarter, with one minute and a half to play, when Sullivan went through the Baptist line for 20 yards, and a moment later Selfert crossed the line on a forward pass from Sullivan. Up until this time the first half was either team's. The third quarter was entirely Wake Forest's, and the final period was the "Techs" only by the barest margin. The work of Harris, Witherington and Powell featured for Wake Forest, while Sullivan, Riddick and Selfert proved the stellarites for the Techs.

WASHINGTON AND LEE ELEVEN
PROVED STRENGTH OF V. P. I.

"Techs" Are Outplayed in Annual Gridiron Battle 13 to 0.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 16.—Washington and Lee, on the offensive throughout the game, proved too strong in their annual gridiron battle with the Virginia polytechnic institute here today, defeating them by a score of 13 to 0. Washington and Lee scored in the first quarter after a series of line plunges, Sweetland taking the ball over a few minutes before the close of the period.

In the last quarter Sweetland made a second touchdown for Washington and Lee on a spectacular forward pass from Bagby running forty yards for a touchdown.

"Cy" Young, Washington and Lee's star quarterback, sustained a broken collar bone in the third quarter.

AUBURN WINS HARD FOUGHT GAME FROM CLEMSON 14 TO 0.

Anderson, S. C., Oct. 16.—Auburn defeated Clemson 14 to 0 in a hard fought football game here today. In the first quarter Caughman, of Auburn, skirted the Clemson right end and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. Auburn scored in the third quarter on straight football. Clemson frequently tried the forward pass, but was unable to score, although at one time within ten yards of the Auburn goal. The play frequently was in Auburn's territory.

PENNSYLVANIA AND THE NAVY
END CONTEST WITH 7 TO 7 TIE

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 16.—Pennsylvania and Navy played a 7 to 7 tie game here this afternoon, each scoring a touchdown and goal. Navy's score was due to the quick eye of Martin, who, after intercepting a forward pass, ran 75 yards for the touchdown. The Quakers' points were due to persistent work of line tackle and end plays with forward passing.

WILL ON WOFFORD COLLEGE

Davidson, N. C., Oct. 16.—After the first half, in which fumbles and penalties featured, Davidson scored almost at will on Wofford College of Spartanburg, S. C. Black and R. Walker carried the ball for the principal gains.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 16.—The Seawee eleven defeated the University of Florida team 7 to 0 here today. Seawee scored in the second quarter on a touchdown and goal.

PROVISIONS OF THE COTTON
FUTURES ACT TO BE ENFORCED

Pending Outcome of Government Appeal to Supreme Court.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Provisions of the cotton futures act, held unconstitutional by United States Judge Hough in New York, will be enforced, it was learned tonight, pending the outcome of an appeal to the Supreme Court. Officials of the Treasury and Agricultural Departments have reached this decision after a conference.

Judge Hough declared that as a revenue measure, the act should have originated in the House, not in the Senate. It will be contended that the tax provision of the bill did originate in the House as an amendment to the Senate measure.

HARVARD WINS STIFF GAME FROM VIRGINIA

Southerners Less Formidable Than Was Expected.

Virginia Twice Had Ball in Kicking Distance of Goal—Four Attempts at Forward Passing by Harvard Failed—Score 9-0.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 16.—Captain Edward Mahan, of Harvard, proved himself a worthy successor to Captain Charles Brickley, the former football star, by personally defeating the University of Virginia today 9 to 0, by dropping three field goals, one of them from the 42-yard line.

The Virginians proved less formidable than was anticipated from their 10 to 0 defeat of Yale two weeks ago. Harvard fathomed their offensive in the first period, but their defense stiffened as it retreated and twice threw back the Crimson tide inside the five-yard line.

Both teams began raggedly, Harvard fumbling and offending while the Virginians were uncertain. Before Harvard woke up to the visitors' offense the ball was twice within kicking distance of the Crimson goal, but in each case Right Guard Thurman failed by yards. A third attempt was blocked.

The Harvard offense got under way in the second period for a 53 yards march to Virginia's three-yard line. This was the longest and most consistent gain of the afternoon. Virginia prevented a touchdown and Mahan dropped his first goal from the 15-yard line.

The Southerners were on the defensive for the rest of the game, but they kept Harvard well back and compelled Mahan to take his second shot standing on the 42-yard line.

In the fourth period Mahan aimed another kick accurately and scored from the 28-yard line.

A few minutes before time was called Harvard, by a 45-yard run back by Rollins and short line plunges, worked the ball again to Virginia's three-yard line, only to lose it on downs. The Crimson made little effort to uncover intricate plays, and four attempts at forward passing failed.

Thurman's kicking was a feature, but some of his punts late in the game were out of reach of his tired ends. One of his kicks traveled 80 yards before it struck the ground.

CAROLINA UNABLE TO SCORE ON GEORGETOWN

Loses Gridiron Contest by a Score of 38 to 0.

Only Once Was Carolina Able to Force
a Forward Pass—Gilroy's Sensational Offensive Play for Georgetown Featured.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Georgetown University defeated North Carolina here today, 38 to 0, in a game featured by Gilroy's sensational offensive play. Twice the Georgetown left halfback wormed his way through the entire Carolina eleven for touchdowns and he made frequent gains of from 15 to 30 yards, scoring four of the six touchdowns.

The day was damp and dreary and the field wet, with the result that players had difficulty in handling the ball. The forward pass frequently was essayed but only three times did it go through, twice for Georgetown and once for visitors. This pass gave the Chapel Hill eleven its only first down of the game.

Captain D. Taylor, of North Carolina, retired early in the game with a bruised shoulder. Lave was banished for rough play and his team penalized half the distance to the goal. Georgetown lost 90 yards on penalties for holding and off-side play.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ADVOCATES
IN "VICTORY" PARADE IN BOSTON

Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley Review Line of 16,000 Women.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 16.—A so-called "victory" parade of 16,000 advocates of the woman suffrage was held in the business section today. The suffragists, including both men and women, were reviewed by Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley.

Among the thousands of spectators were many wearing red roses, the badge of the anti-suffragists, but no other counter demonstration of any consequence was attempted. As the head of the procession reached the state house, a letter from Miss Helen Keller thanking Governor Walsh for his interests "in the cause" was handed to him.

Tonight there was a mass meeting while on various street corners suffrage leaders addressed the crowds.

FIRST PAYMENT ON LOAN

Swells Bank Clearing of New York House More Than $813,000,000.

New York, Oct. 16.—The first payment on the Anglo-French $500,000,000 bonds made yesterday by managers of the syndicate underwriting the issue, and other factors, swelled the bank clearing of the New York clearing house, it was announced today, to the unprecedented total of more than $813,000,000. This means that this great sum, represented by checks, passed through the clearing house within the past 24 hours. The previous record, made November 5, 1909, was $728,000,000.

DENIES HE HAS RESIGNED

Ambassador Page at London Says There is No Truth in Report.

London, Oct. 16.—A report was current here today that American Ambassador Walter H. Page had sent a cablegram to Washington offering his resignation from the ambassadorship. Mr. Page, who was apprised of the report, said to the Associated Press: "There is no truth in such a report. I have not resigned and I have taken no action which would justify a rumour to that effect."

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The Army was defeated today by Colgate by 13 to 0 in one of the hardest fought games ever staged here. Colgate took advantage of poor work by the Cadets and scored both touchdowns. Although the Cadets fought hard they could not ward off the powerful onslaughts of the visiting backs.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16.—Yale defeated the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College here today 19 to 0. The points came from two touchdowns and the resultant goals, a beautiful field goal by Savage from the 43-yard line, and a safety. The visitors made many brilliant forward passes, but were unable to gain consistently.

SENTENCED TO DIE HE MAINTAINS INNOCENCE

History of Double Homicide in Salt Lake City.

Joseph Hillstrom, a Persian, Charged With Killing Merchant and His Son, Refuses to Tell Where He Was at Time.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 16.—Joseph Hillstrom, who claims to be a Persian subject, charged with the dual crime of killing a groceryman and his son in this city more than a year ago, still maintains his innocence, although he refuses to tell where he was on the night of the shooting. Morrison was convicted of the crime and sentenced to be shot October 1, but, upon request of President Wilson, was reprieved by Governor Spry until further investigation of the case can be made. The case, noted for its longstanding and unusual developments, has become one of nation-wide interest.

Joseph Hillstrom was convicted of the murder of John B. Morrison, a grocer of Salt Lake City, and his son, Arling, 17 years old, at Morrison's store in the southern portion of the city about 9 o'clock on the evening of January 10, 1914. The shooting was witnessed by Merlino Morrison, another son, 14 years old. According to this boy's story, which was corroborated on many points by the evidence, two masked men entered the store with drawn pistols and, saying "We've got you now," opened fire on Morrison, who fell mortally wounded with a bullet through his chest. Arling Morrison, ran to an ice box in the store, seized a .38-caliber revolver and fired. Before the boy could shoot again, he fell pierced by three bullets and died almost instantly. The men then ran from the store, one of them exclaiming that he was shot, and were observed to run southward from the store. The surviving son bent over his father, who became unconscious after having inquired where his assailants were, and died soon afterward.

Hillstrom, also known as Joe Hill, was arrested three days after the shooting on information given by a doctor near Murray, Utah, two and a half miles south of the scene of the crime. Hillstrom was taken into the doctor's home two hours after the shooting, with a large bullet wound through his left lung. He told the doctor he had been shot in a quarrel over a woman and requested that nothing be said regarding his visit or wound. The doctor, not having heard of the murders, treated the wound and took Hillstrom to a house where he had been staying for several days. News of the murders recalled the case to the doctor and he informed the officers. The doctor found an automatic pistol, of the same caliber as shells found in the grocery after the shooting, in Hillstrom's pocket. Hillstrom threw the weapon away after leaving the doctor's home. Blood was found at several places between the store and the home of the doctor and members of the family where Hillstrom lived said a companion had visited him late the night of the murders, talked privately with him and left. This man was not apprehended and has not been heard of since.

The Morrison boy, because of the meagre and confused description was not able to identify Hillstrom except in general description of his size and clothing, but another witness gave a minute and particular description of Hillstrom as one of the assailants seen in bright moonlight, near an electric arc lamp with snow on the ground. Hillstrom also was identified as a man who visited the store after the murders and talked with Morrison.

Hillstrom's recovery from his wound was rapid and complete. He has always maintained his innocence, but has never told where he was the night of the murders or who shot him. He created a scene at his trial by dramatically discharging his attorneys in open court, later giving as his reason their failure to "tear young Morrison" to pieces on cross-examination, referring to the boy who witnessed the shooting. He refused to go on the witness stand himself or to offer any evidence as to where he was or what he did the night of the murders. He was found guilty by the trial jury, the judgment was affirmed by the Supreme court, and the board of pardons, after an exhaustive review of the case, declined to commute his sentence of death.

He was sentenced to be shot October 1 and was reprieved by Governor Spry September 30 at the request of President Wilson, who acted on a request of the Swedish minister. The case had previously been investigated for the Swedish minister by the Swedish vice-consul for Utah, a well known attorney, who advised that his investigation developed nothing that would justify the board of pardons in commuting the sentence.

Hillstrom declined to make any statement before the board of pardons or to give it any information as to where he was or what he did the night of the homicides or the circumstances under which or the place where he received his wound. He also declined to give the board any reasons why he should receive clemency and refused to let his own counsel or any member of the board interrogate him on any subject whatever. He declared he did not wish a commutation or pardon and insisted that he have a new trial which the board and his own counsel informed him the board was powerless to grant.

Admiral Peary Before Aero Fell 1,200 Feet.

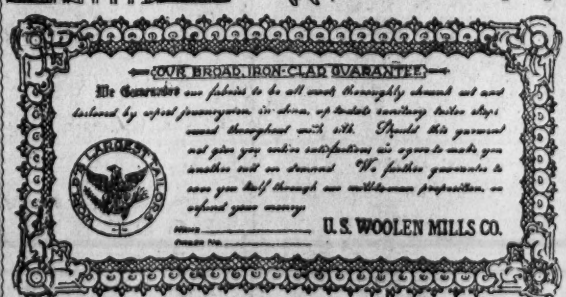

The flying boat which carried Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, on his first flight, fell with him 1,200 feet. With his aviator he landed safely on the water near Long Island, and did not even know there had been an accident. At a height of 1,200 feet the engine stalled and failed to work further. Thomas W. Post took him up, and as the engine broke down the aviator yelled to him that all was safe but he didn't understand what was meant. The Admiral sat quietly in the car while the aviator made spirals to land. From below the crowd could see that there had been an accident, but the discoverer of the North Pole didn't know it. When he was safe on the ground he was told.

"Why I thought that was the way every one came down in an aeroplane," said he.

TOP O' THE MORNING

And Him evermore I behold
Walking in the midst of the world.
He toucheth the slightest eyes;
Before Him the demons flee;
He saith to the dead "Arise!"
To the living: "Follow Me!"
And that voice still soundeth on,
From the centuries that are gone
To the centuries that shall be.

Let's open up Eastern North Carolina

it, but its worth the money.

It is stated that shell fire gives soldiers "agraphia," a nervous trouble which so affects a man that he can't

It is said that the Progressive party will be heard from. The trouble is the Progressive party never knows what it is going to say till it sees it in the papers after the Colonel Hands
it in for publication.

The International Peace Congress
has delegated Dr. David Starr Jordan to go to Washington to urge President Wilson to call a conference of neutral nations for the purpose of organizing them into a body for the purpose of bringing about peace. Probably the neutral nations wouldn't any more agree on the way to secure peace than did the women who went all the way to The Hague and held a conference that agreed to disagree. This is a time when everybody disagrees and sympathy and bias play a bigger part than judgment.

NEW YORK RUN BY SOUTHERNERS.

Some one has said that New York is run by Southerners and Westerners,
but if it is, the bunch there must be a powerful lot, since the United States census in 1910 gave the number of Southerners in New York as 74,930.
The Western bunch is less. Many Southerners, however, were bold enough to seek opportunities in a city of 6,000,000 people, and thousands of these are among New York's most powerful men. There are 10,736 North Carolinians in New York, but Virginia tops
the list with 28,862. Among Southerners who have gone to the metropolis
to let opportunity knock at their door,
or for opportunity to kidnap them, are 5,229 South Carolinians; 6,798 Georgians,
2,165 Alabamians, 577 from Arkansas,
2,399 from Florida, 4,520 from Kentucky, 3,331 from Louisiana, 12,562 from Maryland, 1,023 from Mississippi, 5,443
from Missouri, 2,425 from Tennessee,
2,387 from Texas, and 1,379 from West Virginia.

New Jersey leads all the outside states in contributing 59,898 people to New York. Pennsylvania comes next with 64,904, Massachusetts third with 54,977, and Virginia fourth with 28,862.
The Western states contribute a comparatively few, hardly as many on the average as the average of the Southern states. Commerce and Finance, October 13, publishes the statistics by states, and evidently the comparatively small number of Southerners in New York compared with their prominence
and activity in the great city astonishes the editor. Southerners in New York are so conspicuous that it would seem that they had overrun the town.

At least Commerce and Finance says:
"Nothing statistical has been so surprising to us as these figures. If it were not for the profound respect we have for the Census Bureau we might doubt them."

"Only 2,387 Texans in New York! Is it possible? It has seemed to us at times there were that many here bossing railroads, serving on the bench or in borough presidencies or getting shamefully rich in corporation practice. And surely there are nearly that many Texans here running New York's banks!"

"Next to the figures regarding Texas
those of Virginia are most astonishing.
To anyone who has gone about New York and in theatre or restaurant has seen gentlemen of raised men get up and give the Rebel yell when the band played 'Dixie,' it is inconceivable that there are only 28,862 Virginians resident in New York. There hardly is anything a gentleman will confess as readily as that he is a Virginian after he has given the Rebel yell. There is no place where the Rebel yell and
'Dixie' are so popular as in New York.
Most persons thought this was because the city had so many hundreds of thousands of Virginians—F. F. V.'s resident here."

The more these figures are studied the more they disappoint. It is made to appear that there are 10,736 North Carolinians. This must be a mistake as also the 6,798 charged to Georgia and the 5,229 credited to South Carolina. There are no Southerners in New York except Texans and Virginians.
There used to be a North Carolinian,
but he always apologized and now he has moved away.

"If it is true that there are only 2,387 Texans and 28,862 Virginians in New York, where are the 54,904 Pennsylvanians and the 69,898 Jerseyites hiding out? The Pennsylvania delegation probably has decreased since Harry Thaw left town but aside from the Steel Trust people and the coal man, who ever saw anyone in New York who would acknowledge he was a Pennsylvanian?"

"The heading the Census Bureau puts on the above table is 'Outsiders in New York City.' That's wrong. They are insiders in New York. The Westerners and the Southerners own and manage the Metropolis. The native born New Yorker who ever gets anything in New York gets it by grace of the insiders
from without. It has been that way for 50 years and there is not any probability that it ever will change."

That is very complimentary to the Southerners but probably there are so many big New York fellows that they generously let the credit go to the Southerners. It is a good way they have of attracting population. They welcome newcomers so they can help watch New York grow in spite of itself. It is some town, and yet every feature of New York's growth in trade and commerce and along all lines is watched just as closely as if New York were running a race with Podunk.

We fear those Tar Heel New Yorkers will have a suit for damage against Editor Price who hints that they have practically expatriated themselves.

DEVELOPING NATIVE ART.

Sometimes work is play for children,
especially the kind of work that is artistic and therefore appeals to almost any child. In the Georgia schools there is a movement for the development of native art and handicraft, and the Savannah News says it finds its medium of expression in a fine exhibit of articles made by children from the native materials at hand. Such work, it is declared by The News, will be greatly promoted as a play feature by an interesting display of baskets made by Savannah children and grown children practically as a pastime. The display was made at the First District Agricultural Fair held a few days ago
in Savannah. No doubt the display demonstrated some new possibilities,
for our esteemed Savannah contemporary says with reference to the baskets
and bric-a-brac made by the children:

"The needles of the long-leaved pine,
pine burls, marsh grasses and the native woods have all been utilized, and their adaptability to basketry and rustic work has in some cases been demonstrated for the first time. The educational value of handicraft, as training for eye and hand and as a means of self-expression through creative art is no longer questioned. To adapt the resources of one's own neighborhood
to these fine purposes is a step further that cannot be too highly commended."

The materials for various kinds of pretty and useful things are practically inexhaustible, and the articles to be made depend upon the suggestions of the teachers and the ingenuity of the children, many of whom originate designs of their own and make new discoveries in the way of materials. While the children are learning to make baskets or tabarets or other articles they learn color work and the methods of dyeing or painting or varnishing their finished products. Taste as well as skill is cultivated.

Certain peas and beans, and especially the seeds of China berries are colored and used as decorations for numerous pretty things by those who have learned to play at making beautiful things.

Veneers and splits are dyed or painted, or pasteboards, paper boxes, etc., are converted into many useful articles after children become adept at the art. They can use silk ribbons and cloth or cottons for bows, rosettes, or linings, and fancy handles are made by wrapping them with tapes and ribbons. Paper flowers and other articles are made, and really there is no end of articles that even the smallest girls soon learn to make and become delighted in.

Lots of children won't have to write to Santa Claus for Christmas things.
They will sell some of their art work
and make their own Christmas money.

THE CHARLESTON SITUATION

While Governor Manning has been criticized for calling out the militia
as a precautionary measure against disorder in Charleston on the occasion of the municipal primary Tuesday,
which was the culmination of a bitter campaign, two subsequent developments have combined to amply vindicate
the chief executive's action. The riot of Friday resulting in the death of young Sydney Jacob Cohen, of the local staff of the Charleston Evening Post, and the wounding of some half a dozen others, shows that the governor
had good reason to suspect that serious trouble was brewing at the time he called out the militia, while the fact that so long as the state troops were on the scene in readiness for instant action there was no disturbance, indicates that the governor's action was effective and probably saved the city of Charleston from greater tragedy than that of Friday.

All the circumstances and developments indicate that Governor Manning knew what he was about, and it is now
the turn of Charleston and the whole state of South Carolina to give him credit for taking action that probably saved the city and the state from a far greater disgrace than results from the sad and grave tragedy of Friday.
The governor's action should strengthen
him in the esteem of patriotic South Carolinians. In this connection, such laudable expressions as this which appeared in the Florence Daily Times middle of the week, before Friday's riot had occurred, are gratifying:
"The governor is not a hysterical man nor one who would be influenced by any desire for such notoriety as this episode must bring him. The act can be popular and distinctly tends toward gaining him enemies rather than friends. It may be assumed,
therefore, that he would not have taken the step that he did without just and serious cause. In pursuing this course
he has proved himself above any consideration of selfishness and has been willing to sacrifice himself to maintain the law. Had he done less he would have proved himself less than a man
and unfit for his high office."

There is one phase of the Charleston situation that has been a puzzle
to outsiders, especially at this distance.
What is it all about? We have been told repeatedly during the last few days that the campaign which culminated in the primary of Tuesday was a bitter one. We were told that Mayor Grace and his opponent, Mr. Hyde, headed the two factions that were waging a warm fight against each other for control of Charleston's municipal affairs, but we have not been told what exactly is the line of cleavage,
just what was the issue, what was the lineup, in brief, what were the inner facts.

We have understood that the fight was related, in a measure at least, to the question of prohibition, against which Charleston voted in the Statewide election on the question a few weeks ago, when local option was defeated in the state by 20,000 majority,
but, so far as we have seen, it has not been published abroad that this was the issue in the Charleston campaign.
In fact, until just a day or two prior to the primary, no attention had been called to the fact that there was any unusual bitterness in the city's campaign. It was known in a vague sort of way, as the Florence Times says,
"that the situation in Charleston leading up to the city primary was tense but the order from Columbia which called out the militia and practically put the city under martial law was a surprise and a shock" even to most of the State of South Carolina.
"The inner facts have not been made known," says the Times, which explains that, "the inner facts of politics
in Charleston are never known outside of Charleston and are indeed known to but few in the city itself.
There has, however, been abundant evidence of bitter and rancorous feeling between the factions contending for the control of the city."

THE COTTON MOVEMENT.

Cotton exports last September were 300 per cent greater than in September last year, as shown by a government bulletin concerning the movement of the new cotton crop. The exports in September, including linters, were 692,031 bales, compared with 125,778
bales in September, 1914. In September we imported foreign grown cotton to the amount of 26,197 bales, compared with 15,315 bales in September, 1914.

This shows that we are shipping considerably more cotton to foreign countries than we did last year, while American cotton mills are consuming more. During September American consumption was 498,219 bales, exclusive of linters, compared with 414,886

bales in September, 1914. Besides that,
the stock of cotton held in consuming establishments on September 30 was 1,639,614 bales, compared with 556,592
bales on the corresponding date last year. In fact, consuming establishments have taken nearly twice the amount of cotton they took in September last year.

In cotton storages and compresses at the end of September there were 2,796,- 500 bales, compared with 1,663,625
bales on the 30th of September, 1914.
The number of cotton spindles active September 30th was 31,295,104, compared with 30,807,154 in September, 1914.

This shows a healthy demand for cotton and increased industrial activity, and with continued demand in proportion to that in September, the short crop will make eager buyers for the balance of the season.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Manly, clean-living, high-minded and unusually gifted, Sidney Cohen of Charleston was just entering upon a career giving promise of exceptional brilliance. Only a week or two ago
we were privileged to feel his honest
hand-grip, to renew for a brief moment a friendship and to summon again olden memories that have been sweet and gracious to us since our college days together. May God rest his gentle soul.—Columbia State.

The entrance of a fourth candidate
into the political arena of the Sixth district adds fuel to the contest.
Mr. Herbert McClammy, of Wilmington, is the last to enter the contest, and starts out with what might be termed a challenge to the other candidates to meet him. It is likely that the candidates will get the voters out to hear them.
—Lumberton Tribune.

On the desk before us as we write rests a pamphlet lately published as a bulletin by the University of South Carolina, entitled "Three Notable Ante-Bellum Magazines of South Carolina," a work the most modest as it is,
discloses the conscientious research
of the historical scholar and the skill of the gifted writer. It is a service to the State of a studious, talented, gentle, and never raised his voice in hand against any man, who was not given to boasting and who was content to perform quietly and faithfully,
in many ways, what was set for him to do. It is no idle thing to say that when the final reckoning is had
the public service of writing this pamphlet, that will have its permanent place in the libraries of South Carolina, will be accounted not less useful to the State than the rantings
of many a Charleston politician.

The writer of it was Sidney J.
Cohen, the newspaper reporter, who
as he was diligently earning his livelihood, at the threshold of what promised to be a worthy career in the journalism of his native city, was shot down yesterday. It is the way of the curse that it so often strikes the innocent, the truest and best. And the men who are guiltiest of his death will be among the loudest of those crying "wreath" and "regret" and "deplorable." They can not call him back.
The pity of it is that Sidney Cohen
is not the last as he is not the first.
The curse is still on South Carolina and other young men in the uncertain endeavor to bring the State and its people to a truer conception of citizenship will give up their lives.
A devoted friend of this youth advised him against going into newspaper work in Charleston—not that his fate was anticipated but because his friend believed that a larger future was offered him elsewhere, but young Cohen loved his Charleston and, by reason of his love, would not hear the advice. To satisfy the maddened bloodlust of Charleston's lawless men he lies dead.—Columbia State.

"WELFARE NURSE" VS. "SCHOOL" AND INFANT WELFARE NURSE

To the Public:
I have been requested by a committee from the Ministering Circle of King's Daughters to explain the difference in the services rendered the public by the Welfare Nurse which they employ and the School and Infant Welfare Nurse who is employed by the Board of Health.

During several years past this city
has had the free service of a competent nurse who has been actively engaged in supervising the welfare of
those of our citizens who, being sick
in their homes, have not been able to secure such service otherwise.
This nurse has worked constantly in conjunction with the Associated Charities and has been of invaluable assistance to the medical service rendered the indigent by the Health Department. It was her duty to see that she conveyed to the public a really appreciative understanding of the value of this service. To undertake this within the scope of a newspaper article would be futile. Hundreds of young and old people have been given comfort and relief through the ministrations of this nurse. This service is beyond doubt the most valuable single philanthropy of a private nature that exists in this country. We who are in close touch daily with the poor hold the Ministering Circle of King's Daughters in the highest esteem and stand ready at all times to work with them for the relief of suffering as we have done in the past.

The nurse employed by the Health Department is employed for a very specific purpose which is only remotely related to the services rendered by the Welfare Nurse. It is her duty to visit the schools of the city for the purpose of looking for evidences of infection among the children of the first and second grades. This work engages practically all of her time during the school session. At other times she is engaged in visiting homes in which infants have recently been born whose mothers have not had medical attention but who have employed midwives. In these homes she investigates the conditions,
instructs the mother in the care and feeding of her infant, and reports to the department such cases as need medical attention. She visits families who are under quarantine to see that the quarantine regulations are observed, and assists at the clinic which is held each day at noon at the Health Department.

During the past summer Mrs. Hanna and Miss Pinner attended to each other's work during their respective vacation periods. By mutual agreement these nurses assist each other in every possible way and for these rea-

OLD-TIME "SPELLING BEE."

Enjoyable Affairs Given by Methodists and Baptists at Warsaw.
(Special Star Correspondence.)
Warsaw, N. C., Oct. 16.—The old-time "Spelling Bee," given by the Methodists and Baptists jointly at the high school building Friday evening, was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. S. A. Johnson and Mrs. C. F. Carroll chose sides in the spelling match, and after all who would consent to spell were chosen, the fun began. Senator R. D. Johnson was master of ceremonies, and gave out the words. Those who spelled the longest were Mesdames J. A. Ricks and Alice Brown and Miss Bettie Hunter, all of whom were floored on the word "illiguate." Admission was charged at the door, and refreshments of oysters, salads, and candies were sold, a nice sum for the two churches being realized thereby.

Car Service to Circus Grounds today. From Front and Princess every ten minutes, from Fourth and Redcross (via Tenth street) every half hour, beginning when show arrives at grounds. (Advertisement.)

Show grounds illuminated at night by special plant carried with circus.

Wilmington will have a real circus tomorrow and young and old will celebrate in the old time way. Novelty is said to be the keynote of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which combines the best elements of the old time show with the new things in the way of thrills. It is claimed that monotony and repetition have been eliminated in this amusement enterprise.

Three trains of double length railroad cars, twice the size of the ordinary car, are used to transport the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus. The first section, known in the parlance of the circus as the "flying squadron" was scheduled to leave Newbern where the show played yesterday, soon after midnight. The dining tents with its conveniences will inaugurate the encampment at the grounds, and food will await the hungry hundreds when they reach the circus grounds.

The circus parade will make its start from the show grounds at 10 o'clock Monday morning or as near that hour as the weather will permit. The pageant promise is given, will surpass the expectations of the young and old. A score of camels will tread the route, and of camels, zebras, seals, sacred cattle, yaks and other "red" animals there will be legion. Dozens of open cages will disclose their jungle inmates and trainers. More than 800 people will follow the plumed draft and Percherons and Clydesdales, thoroughbred chariot racers and ring horses to the sturdy little shetland ponies, ever dear to the hearts of the children, will display themselves.

The allegorical and tableau floats and other appurtenances with the pageant are resplendent with color and all represent the best efforts of distinguished designers, sculptors and decorators. Eight bands and two steam calliopes will give brass harmony and the nonsense of clowns will parade the long line.

The circus performance will begin promptly at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night, and the Hagenbeck-Wallace management announces that their mammoth new arena tent is weatherproof. It is 540 feet in length and is declared to be nothing short of an Aladdin-like canvas palace.

FRIDAY NIGHT UNUSUAL FOR NUMBER OF ROBBERIES.

Councilman Hall's Store Was Visited. Others Pillaged.

Friday night was unusual for the large number of robberies committed in Wilmington, which is rather interesting to note, because no robberies had been reported for the past three weeks. It appeared, said a citizen yesterday, that they had all plotted together. They held their peace for a time until the police were off their guard and then all made a rush at once. The police station yesterday had a number of reports of homes and stores which had been entered.

Mr. A. Y. Eyles, a well known drayman, reported to the police that early Friday evening he came upon four white boys, probably between 15 and 20 years of age, trying to enter Hon. J. T. Eyles' jewelry store on Front street. They were entering from the rear with the use of a crow bar, he said. The boys ran in different directions. Mr. Eyles chased one of them and tried to get assistance, but it being a habit of his to chase boys who tease him, no one paid any attention and let the boy get away.

Some of the robbers evidently liked the idea of committing practical jokes, for Councilman James M. Hall, in charge of the Department of Public Safety, was one of the victims. Some one having entered his store, corner of Fifth and Castle streets, taking tobacco, cigarettes, toilet articles and other goods. They had tried to wreck the cash register, but failed to get any money from it. They all had a free drink of a compound from the soda fountain. Councilman Hall had suggested at the meeting of City Council Wednesday morning, the advisability of getting blood hounds, and now it is likely that this measure will be put through and some "perfectly innocent" thief, will be surprised to see that he is caught, and will at least always be watched, even if sufficient evidence is not secured to convict him.

Two residences were also entered Friday night. Sixty cents was stolen from the home of Mr. Jesse J. Batson, No. 406 Castle street. There was quite a bit of plundering done. The home of Mr. J. T. Burke, No. 507 Castle street, was entered from a back window. Clothes were carried into the adjoining yard. The watch was left in the pocket, but $7 in cash was taken. Nothing else was missed.

Plainclothesmen Leon George and D. W. Coleman made an investigation, but found no trace of the robbers.

TO PRESENT DAVIS PORTRAIT

Likeness of Confederate Attorney General to Be Given State Supreme Court on Tuesday Evening.

The portrait of the late George Davis, of Wilmington, who was attorney general of the Confederate States of America and a member of Jefferson Davis' cabinet, will be presented to the State Supreme Court in Raleigh on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock with appropriate exercises. The portrait, which is said to be a splendid likeness of this honored citizen, was painted by Mr. Jacques Busbee, of Raleigh, and is a gift of members of the Davis family.

The presentation will be made by Capt. Samuel A. Ashe, of Raleigh, and will be formally accepted by Chief Justice Walter Clark. The exercises will be attended by a number of friends from Wilmington and also by members of the family in this city.

Mr. Davis was one of the most able lawyers that this State has ever produced. He was a native of Wilmington and with the exception of the time he was away on official duties spent his life here.

A monument to his memory has been erected in Wilmington on the plaza of Market street at the intersection of Third street.

Invitations to attend the presentation exercises have been received by friends in the city reading as follows:

The Family of the Honorable George Davis Davis

invite you to attend the ceremonies of the presentation of his portrait to the Supreme Court of North Carolina at 8.30 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, October 19, 1915, at the Supreme Court Room, Raleigh, North Carolina.

HARME PLAYERS FAREWELL

Played to Wilmington Audiences Yesterday for Last Time.

The people of Wilmington who appreciate good theatricals, to be had at low cost and always on the job, so that a visiting friend might be invited out to the theatre at any time, there was no other place to amuse him, will feel sorry to hear that the matinee and evening performance at the Victoria theatre yesterday closes the engagement of the Harme Associate Players. They had put on good up-to-date shows all the time and acted them in an interesting manner.

Mr. W. M. Peck will succeed Mr. Marx S. Nathan as manager and beginning October 25, will begin a series of musical comedies. Patrons of the Victoria will be sorry to know that the theatre will be closed all this week, but on account of the circus and other attractions, Mr. Peck thought it best to wait a week before beginning the new shows.

PRICE OF SPIRITS RISES

Advance Yesterday on Local Naval Stores Market of Two Cents.

The price of spirits turpentine yesterday advanced two cents a gallon on the local naval stores market, the market quotation being steady at 41 cents. This is a rise of approximately $2 per barrel and marks a new level for the prices offered for the past several months. The receipts recently have been very light, while the demand has gradually increased, and this doubtless has been the principal factor in effecting the advance in price. For the past several weeks the rise has been gradual, advancing by fractions of a cent, but yesterday's jump was somewhat out of the ordinary. The quotations for the same date last year was 45 cents per gallon.

Fire Prevention Day Success.

Fire Prevention day, observed in the city schools Friday was a decided success, and Fire Chief Charles Schnibben yesterday said he desired to thank everyone who helped to make it so. He believes that if you expect to teach a people any substantial methods of fire prevention, it is necessary to begin with the children. They will live by the principles learned in their youth far easier and more regularly than will people who learn them after their youth has passed.

The President expects to go to Shadow Lawn immediately after the adjournment of Congress and before the conventions are held. From there he can keep in touch with headquarters of the Democratic National committee in New York.

SPLendid Playground Equipment Donated to Cornelius Harnett School.

Many Addresses.

The playgrounds, so generously donated to the Cornelius Harnett school by Mr. James Sprunt, were formally opened for the children in a most fitting manner, yesterday. There were hundreds of children there for the exercises. In the absence of Chairman J. O. Carr, of the Board of Education, Mr. J. J. Blair, superintendent of the city schools, acted as master of ceremonies.

There were a number of speakers, including Mr. Blair, Rev. T. G. Vickers, Rev. J. A. Sullivan. Following the exercises, the children spent an hour playing with the apparatus on the grounds. There were a number of interested visitors, including Mr. Odie B. Hinnant, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Miss May Foster, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.; Messrs. Heyer and Smith, committeemen of the Cornelius Harnett school, and others.

The equipment of the grounds includes a giant slide, five swings set in iron frames, five see-saw boards, one stationary swing, two low parallel bars, plenty of small and large skipping ropes for girls, two small parallel acting bars and one horizontal bar, on which the boys may learn to "skin cats," and do other stunts.

Mr. Blair, feeling the responsibility of possibly directing the addition of other improvements, asked the children what they would like to have, if an additional gift was made. Many and various were the things desired, including a field house, a football gridiron and a baseball diamond, but probably the most nearly unanimous desire was that a wide cement walk be laid upon which there would be no restriction for skating.

It was a play day for the children and the ideal October weather did nothing to mar their pleasure. Every face was happy and everything was good will and unadorned gladness from the time they gathered until night time called them away to their respective homes.

Mrs. Hettie Fennell, the popular principal of the school, announced that she will be at the building for two afternoons in the week to direct the playing of the children.

PRICE OF COTTON SEED

Montgomery, Ala., Prices Were for One Day Flurry Only.

The Star is in receipt of a letter from Mr. O. L. Clark, of Clarkton, taking exception to the Associated Press dispatch in The Star a few days ago in which it was stated that cotton seed were selling there for $50 per ton. Mr. Clark writes that immediately upon reading this dispatch, he wired the Chamber of Commerce, of Montgomery, to telegraph him addresses of reliable crushers paying this price or have him make him an offer on 20 cars of seed. Mr. Clark received the following reply: "Prevailing price on market today $42. Went to $50 yesterday only on intention. Mr. Clark signified his intention of wiring the Montgomery people as follows: 'If such small thing as flurry drives your market up $8 per ton, in case a sale or hurricane or hurricane, come along soon and you have a chance, sell some one for me two or three trains loads, your option at $75 or $100 per ton.'"

NEW Y. M. C. A. DEBATING CLUB.

Mr. K. B. Knudsen, Chairman Pro Tem. Enthusiastic Meeting Held.

A new debating and dramatic club was organized Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. with Mr. K. B. Knudsen, chairman pro tem, and Mr. J. M. Bullard, secretary pro tem. The meeting next Friday night for the purpose of considering a constitution and by-laws, promises to be even larger and more enthusiastic.

These by-laws with the constitution were given some consideration Friday night. The principles of the organization are pretty well expressed in the preamble of the constitution, which reads: "For the purpose of promoting general interest in debating, literary and dramatic work; and of developing our ability in public speaking, we form ourselves into an organization to be guided by the principles and laws embodied in this Constitution."

THE CORN SHOW COMMITTEES

With the announcement of the committees who will serve to make the Cape Fear Corn Show a success, the plans and general interest in the event become more pronounced.

Chairman Thos. R. Ames and the executive committee desire to state that they will be glad to add the names of any volunteers to the list of committees, who are willing to give their active co-operation. With the daily announcement of more definite plans and arrangements the show grows in interest and the fact that so many active workers and business men have signified their intention to lend their aid to the proposition is added encouragement for the success of the Corn Show.

CASE NOT PROSSED.

Prosecuting Witness Fails—Indicted on Another Charge.

A very interesting case was not prosed with leave yesterday in Recorder's court. Some days ago, Sonny Boy Johnson, colored, beat a fare in a jitney bus. The owner of the bus swore out a warrant against Sonny Boy, charging him with violating a city ordinance. The case was called, but the prosecuting witness failed to appear. Yesterday the State took a nol prosequit leave. It was found that the prosecutor had not paid license for operating a jitney line and had no legal right to make a man pay his fare. A warrant has been issued and it is likely that the careless witness, who put the State to the expense of calling a man to trial three times, will likely be on hand the next time, as he will be the defendant. It is not known that he is liable for the license, but he cannot make a man pay fare until he gets license.

Mr. H. R. Hinson was taxed with costs for violating the driving ordinances.

AN ACTIVE SOCIETY

Christian Endeavorers of St. Andrew's Church to Give Sacred Cantata.

One of the many fine organizations among the young people of several denominations in this country is the Christian Endeavor Society. For more than 30 years this organization of young people, has prospered and grown until today there are almost five million Endeavorers in every part of the world, working for "Christ and the Church."

As an example of the activity of the society, there are several societies in Wilmington engaged in doing their full share of being a real help to those in need of inspiration for living noble lives. The society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church stands high in the ranks, doing gladly and even eagerly, the work to which the members have set their hands. Helping to support home and foreign missionaries, clothing and caring for the orphans, and in various other ways making a substantial interest in charitable work, this society is always busy.

This society is now engaged in preparation for the presenting of the sacred cantata, "Queen Esther." The entire proceeds from the sale of tickets will be devoted to the charitable and helpful work which has been undertaken by the Endeavorers.

The rehearsals so far have been coming along in fine shape, and Mr. Jones, the director, deserves to be congratulated for the talented and able assistance he has been able to secure, both in the chorus and in the principal parts. There will be a rehearsal of the principals on Monday night.

Go Out to See the unloading of the circus today. Frequent car service to the grounds. (Advertisement.)

STREAK OF GOOD LUCK.

Canine Responsible for Saving Mr. William Roberts' Money He Lost.

Luck like lightning is said never to strike twice in the same place and doubtless Mr. William Roberts, who leaves this morning for his home at Elberton, Ga., after a visit of several days with friends and relatives in Wilmington, doesn't expect to have the good fortune again that happened yesterday when he lost his purse. Preparatory to leaving the city, he had gone to a bank and had a check cashed. En route to the place where he was staying he lost the purse and all the money. Hoping against hope and yet hardly expecting ever to see the money again, he retraced his steps towards the bank and en route came upon a canine which was playing with it. "Mr. Roberts didn't believe at first that it was really his money but stopped the dog on a chance and sure enough there were all the bills he had lost.

PRINCETON ROLLS UP SCORE OF 40 TO 3 AGAINST LAFAYETTE

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 16.—Princeton rolled up a score of 40 to 3 against the Lafayette football team here today, but the visitors have what consolation there is in the fact that they are the first eleven that has scored on the Tigers this season.

The spectacular running back of Hicks on the part of Princeton's backfield kept Lafayette from trying any offensive play until the fourth period. Then the visitors made five first downs by means of forward passes.

GREAT FOOTBALL GAME AT RALEIGH OCTOBER 21ST

West Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 16.—On Thursday, October the twenty-first, football fans will see one of the greatest games that has ever been played on A. & M. athletic field. While the team has not run up any large scores this year, the practice this week has shown that A. & M. has one of the strongest teams they have ever had.

Coach Hagarty has made some important changes in the line-up which will greatly strengthen his defense. MacDougal, the big end, has been shifted to guard and his position will be taken by Anthony. The whole team has developed more vigor which will make them a much feared eleven.

Word comes from South Carolina that they have one of the strongest teams that has ever represented that institution. Graduate manager of the South Carolina team says: "We are bringing one of the best teams that has ever represented our University and are expecting a great crowd for the game."

WILMINGTON DEFEATED BY BURGAW BASEBALL TEAM

The entire game was played with only seven hits, Wilmington getting three and Burgaw four. It was pitcher's battle, Jacobs for Wilmington and Johnson for Burgaw. The star fielder of the game was White, of Wilmington, playing left field. Johnson had a shade advantage over Jacobs and his head work in the ninth inning prevented the score from being tied. The game lasted an hour and a half and the umpires were Messrs. McNamara and Sidbury.

LUMBERTON'S NEW BANK A STRONG INSTITUTION

Planters' Bank & Trust Co. to Begin Business Jan. 1st.

Death of Rev. M. A. Stephens and Several Others Recorded—Blockade Outfit Taken—Cotton Selling Freely.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 16.—One of the strongest and most important financial institutions in this section will be the Planters Bank and Trust Company, which will begin business in Lumberton about the first of January. The new institution, it is understood, will absorb the Farmers & Merchants Bank and will occupy the present elegant home of that institution, northeast corner Fourth and Chestnut streets. At a meeting recently of stockholders representing $65,000 of stocks, the following were elected directors: R. W. Jones, New York City; R. H. Barnes, Barnesville; C. B. Townsend, N. A. Thompson, K. M. Barnes, George L. Thompson, H. E. Stacy, D. H. Britt, J. W. Barker, L. T. Townsend, T. A. McNeill, Sr., all of Lumberton; J. L. Townsend, McDonalds; O. C. Spaulding, Jack McGirt, D. M. McRae, Maxton; D. J. Oliver, Marietta; W. B. Fletcher, McCall, S. C.; E. F. Murray, Laurinburg; R. M. McQueen, Raeford; R. O. Pittman, Fairmont; W. J. McDonald, Wakulla; C. T. Pate, Purvis; L. E. Tyner, Lowe; J. A. Stanton, Buie; J. Evans Evans, St. Paul's; J. H. Powers, Powersville; W. M. Bridges, Elrod; J. A. McKay, Wagram; G. M. Pate, C. M. Townsend, Kaysan; M. E. Cotton, Red Springs.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: C. B. Townsend, president; R. H. Barnes, vice president; W. B. Fletcher, vice president; K. M. Barnes, treasurer; O. C. Spaulding, secretary and bond officer.

The officers and directors of the new banking institution are among the most prominent business men in this section, men holding the confidence of the people at large. Mr. C. B. Townsend, the president, has been connected with the National Bank of Lumberton since its organization nearly 20 years ago and is at present active vice president of that bank. There is not a more popular or more highly esteemed citizen in the county than Mr. Townsend. Mr. K. M. Barnes, treasurer of the new organization, has been cashier of the Farmers & Merchants bank since its organization. He is one of the county's very best citizens and as a "clever and efficient" can be found anywhere. Mr. Spaulding, secretary, has been in the banking reference. The new bank will begin business with $150,000 or a greater amount.

Mrs. Sallie Ford Sneed Dead.
Mrs. Sallie Ford Sneed died this morning at 12:30 at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. R. Varner. She had not enjoyed good health for several years, and while her death was sudden it was no surprise. Mrs. Sneed was 70 years old last May. She was a native of Virginia, in which state she resided up to the time of her marriage. Her husband a few years ago, since which time she has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Varner most of the time. The funeral home has not yet been appointed, but will be announced from the different churches tomorrow. The funeral will be conducted by Rev. C. L. Greaves from the residence, and interment will be in Meadow Brook cemetery.

The rather sudden death of Mr. Alex McPhail, which occurred at the home of his parents 1 1/2 miles from town Tuesday night was the cause for much genuine regret in this vicinity. Mr. McPhail had not been well for two or three weeks, but was on the streets Monday. He was 29 years old, and for the past 14 years had been a salesman for his uncle, Mr. J. A. Branch. If he had a single fault no one could tell it. He attended strictly to his own affairs, never meddling in the affairs of others. He was of a friendly, courteous disposition, treating every one with whom he came in contact in such a way as to cause him to be held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

Blockade Outfit Taken.
Sheriff Lewis and Deputy Pratt left town last night shortly after 12 o'clock for a trip out in Howellsville township. They returned about 5 o'clock this morning bringing with them a blockade outfit, but no booty. The still was made of sheet iron, of the upright pattern; the worm was of copper, while the cap was made of a block of sweet gum. The outfit was supplied with apples, grapes, etc., were plentiful, also a good supply of beer. There was no one present, and, of course, the name of the proprietor is a matter of conjecture.

George Allen, of the Howellsville section, was the center of attraction in the recorder's court yesterday afternoon. George was charged with selling "monkey rum," etc., and a number of witnesses, it is said, claimed that they had been buying from him. He was found guilty, but judgment was suspended, the defendant giving a $500 justified bond for his good behavior.

Notwithstanding the fact that Sparks circus will be in Lumberton next Wednesday, it is expected that several people will go from here to Fayetteville Tuesday to see the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows.

Found Dead in Bed.
Mrs. Frank Watts, aged about 20 years, was found dead in bed Thursday night. Her husband heard two weeks old infant crying and noticed that the mother made no effort to pacify it. He went to the bed and found that she had died. Mr. Watts' home is two or three miles in the country.

The graded school management is experimenting on teaching Saturdays and giving Monday as holiday. It seems to be a good change and will, in all probability, be made permanent.

Rev. M. A. Stephens, a well known Baptist minister residing in the southern part of the county, died yesterday. (Continued on Page Twelve.)

35 FLOUR MILLS BRING SUIT TO TEST NEW LAW

Action Against Commissioner of Agriculture Started.

Memorial Service at Monument to Rev. Bartholomew Fuller and Wife Attended by Many to Youngsville. Charters Issued.

(Special Star Correspondence.)
Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 16.—A group of 35 flour mills doing large North Carolina business, and many of them North Carolina plants, have instituted suit in the superior court of Wake county to restrain the Commissioner of Agriculture from enforcing the act passed by the last Legislature regulating the sale of artificially bleached flour. The suit is being brought through the law firm of Tillett & Tillett, of Charlotte. It is insisted that the bleaching process is entirely harmless and that the enforcement of the North Carolina regulation would work a great hardship on the mills.

The act requires a brand, "Artificially Bleached," on packages, and imposes a tax of $25 per year which the complaint insists is unconstitutional. The preliminary hearing of the suit is set for October 25th.

A long line of automobiles bearing members of the Fuller family and their friends went from Raleigh today to Youngsville to hold a memorial service in connection with setting up a monument to Rev. Bartholomew Fuller and his wife, Sarah Cooke, forebears of the distinguished Fuller family and a prominent branch of the Winston family, notably the families of W. W. Fuller, New York, and of the Winston family having Francis D. Winston, of Windsor; Judge R. W. Winston, Raleigh; Dr. George T. Winston, Asheville, as especially prominent members.

Francis D. Winston, of Bertie, was master of ceremonies today for the program at the monument in which the participants were Rev. Bartholomew Fuller Haake, Newbern; Judge R. W. Winston, Raleigh; Thomas S. Fuller, New York; Thomas Blount Fuller, Durham; Judge Charles M. Cooke, Louisville; W. W. Fuller, New York, and Rev. Marion Huske.

Following the exercises, which were attended by an immense crowd from that whole section, the party returned by Millburne where there was a big barbecue given by Judge Winston.

New Corporations Chartered.
New corporations were chartered today as follows:
The Winston-Salem Christo-Cola Bottling Works (Inc.), of Winston-Salem, capital $10,000 authorized and $800 subscribed by George A. Booser, W. F. and A. L. Chambers.
The Shaw-Cox Motor Co., of Lexington, capital $25,000 authorized and $2,000 subscribed by C. C. Shaw, Fred J. Cox and others for motor vehicle business.

The Star Grocery Co., of Burlington, capital $25,000 authorized and $600 subscribed by C. R. Love, R. L. Meacham and others.

Comptroller of Insurance James R. Young is having installed at the State Fair a special department exhibit that will be sent to all the fairs yet to be held in the State this fall. It is called "Safety Fire" and displays that will familiarize the people with the real inwardness of insurance from the layman's point of view. Fire fighting and accident appliances will be featured, including the pulmotor that is revolutionizing the treatment of persons accidentally reduced to unconsciousness.

Sergeant John Holman, of the 26th Infantry, United States Army, has arrived to become sergeant-instructor to the North Carolina infantry, succeeding W. B. Cady, who has been recalled by the War Department and assigned to Madison Barracks, New York.

WEEKLY COTTON GOODS REVIEW.
Steady Advances in Finished Goods Division—Gray Goods Strong.

New York, Oct. 17.—Cotton goods are advancing steadily in the finished goods division and strength continues in all lines of gray goods. Discounts on cotton duck were shortened during the week to a basis of 50 and 5 off the list for wide duck, and 20 and 5 off on sail duck. Bleached muslins were advanced 1-2c a yard to a basis of 8 1-4c for fruit-of-the-loom 4-4 goods. Wide sheetings were further advanced 2 1-2 per cent. Various lines of staple ginghams, tickings, dress ginghams, and other semi-staples are held at value pending a revision upward. Fine and fancy cottons are being advanced at mill centers and in the markets were finished goods are traded in.

Dye stuffs scarcity is becoming a more important factor in trading as buyers are more willing to pay premiums for goods in which colors are guaranteed fast. An advance in prints is looked for daily and percales are up 1-4c a yard.

The demand for merchandise has been broad and sales could easily be increased if mills were able to forecast cotton prices for next year safely. Many mills have begun to run overtime, while colored goods mills continue to announce curtailment due to dye shortages.

Prices quoted: Print cloths 25-inch 64x64s, 3 5-8c; 64x66s, 3 1-2c; 38 1-2-inch 64x64s, 4 7-8c; brown sheetings, Southern standards, 7 1-4c and 7 1-2c; denims, 9 ounce, 14c; tickings at value, 11 1-2c; staple ginghams, at value, 6 1-4c; prints, 5 1-4c; dress ginghams, at value, 8 1-2c.

TWO WOMEN LOSE LIVES IN FIRE IN PICTURE FILM OFFICE.

Two Others Seriously Burned as Result of Explosion of Electric Fuse.
Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 16.—Two women lost their lives and two others were seriously burned today in a fire which swept the offices of the Mutual Film Corporation on the second floor of an office building here. Explosion of an electric fuse in a room where picture films were being prepared for shipment is believed to have started the blaze which spread so rapidly that the scores of women and girls employed in the place were trapped. Firemen made several spectacular rescues.

The dead are Miss Clara Westbrook and Miss Lottie Ham, and the seriously burned are Miss Lucille Davis and Miss Beulah Yews. Several other employees sustained lesser injuries from the flames and from jumping.

THEATRICAL

The sale of seats for the performance of the National Grand Opera Company, which comes to the Academy on next Saturday, matinee and night, will go on sale Thursday morning at Plummer's.

This organization, which comes with the endorsement of the most famous musical critics of Europe and by permission of his majesty, King Victor, is now making its first tour, it being made possible only because of the unsettled state of affairs abroad; comprises many of the world's greatest artists in the realm of grand opera. It derives its name from the famous theatre in Rome, which has fostered it for many years, and which is well known among patrons of the art for having graduated many of the artists seen on the metropolitan stage. Notable among the singers to be heard here in "Rigoletto" and "Don Pasquale" are Edvige Vaccari and Cecelia Zavaschi, coloratura sopranos; Marlan Brooks, contralto; Alice Haesler and Helen Austin, mezzo-sopranos; Louise Berg, soprano; Franco de Gregorio, Albert Amadi and Roberto Anselmi, tenors; Giuseppe La Puma, Michele Rossini and Ernesto De Giacomo, baritones.

Aside from carrying a complete production for each and every one of the operas in their repertoire, the company brings with it, a grand opera orchestra of picked musicians, each and every one thoroughly skilled in the technique of his instrument and all under the capable direction of these justly famed conductors, Chevalier Giuseppe Angelini and Signor Giovanni Leotti, which insures all admirers of high class music a perfect rendition of the scores.

The prices for the afternoon performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" will be from 50 cents to $1.50. For the night performance of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" will be from 50 cents to $2.00.

"Twin Beds"

An important event announced for the Academy of Music on Friday, October 29, will be the initial local presentation of "Twin Beds," a rollicking farce of life among the flat dwellers, by Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo, author of "Baby Mine," which comes here direct from a record run of an entire year in New York City where press and public acclaimed it as one of the best plays of the season. The Shreve-Cox Motor Co., of Lexington, capital $25,000 authorized and $2,000 subscribed by C. C. Shaw, Fred J. Cox and others for motor vehicle business.

Following the exercises, which were attended by an immense crowd from that whole section, the party returned by Millburne where there was a big barbecue given by Judge Winston.

Rev. Bartholomew Fuller was a Baptist minister who labored in Franklin, Wake and Granville counties many years, being born in 1769, and died in 1823, and his wife was born in 1778 and died in 1858.

"The Broken Coin"—Bijou Tuesday.

Tuesday is destined to be a red-letter day for Bijou patrons, for it marks the opening of a sensational production that public has long waited for—featuring the peerless pair, Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, they of "Lucile Love" and "Safety Fire" and displays that will familiarize the people with the real inwardness of insurance from the layman's point of view. Fire fighting and accident appliances will be featured, including the pulmotor that is revolutionizing the treatment of persons accidentally reduced to unconsciousness.

CIRCUSES AND CIRCUSES, BUT THERE'S ONLY ONE "GREATEST."

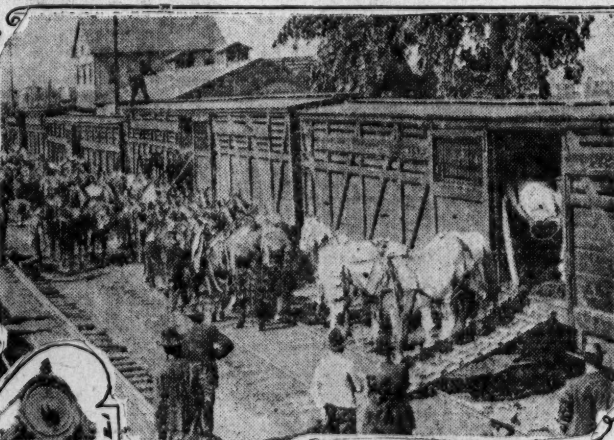

"Earning his way"

About the time the milkman is making his round Sunday morning, the first of the three long trains of yellow cars bearing the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace shows, one of the largest circus organizations in the world, will come slowly pulling into Wilmington over the A. C. L. R. R. The big show is coming from Newbern where it appeared yesterday.

Everything is in readiness for the arrival of the "red" wagons and elephants. Charles Phoenix, the 24-hour man, reached town last night being the last of 108 advance agents to come. The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus programme calls for performances Monday at 2 and 8 p. m. The circus festivities will open with an immense street parade, stretching three miles in length to be seen on the downtown streets Monday morning. The kiddies of Wilmington and some of the "older" boys have been denied a real circus for several years, but the management of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace shows promise that there will be enough circus Sunday and Monday to offset the brief respite of the "white tops."

There are circuses and circuses, but only one Hagenbeck-Wallace show. The circus has in the neighborhood of 3,000 employees who travel aboard the three special trains, in addition to the advance forces who travel on three advertising cars. With the show are over 300 wild animals from the Carl Hagenbeck zoological farm, Hamburg, Germany. For three generations the Hagenbecks have furnished all circuses and menageries with wild animals. But the choicest and rarest specimens are always placed with the show which is partially owned by them. On account of the European war, practically every specimen at the Hamburg manager, a railroad contractor, several contracting agents and a manager for each of the three advance cars, together with several press agents and three score billposters and lithographers. The railroad contractor is the first man out. He is familiar to the finest detail with every railroad in the country—its mileage, connections, yard facilities, bridges, tunnels, etc. He plans, besides arranging for the transportation of the trains, the special excursion trains which convey country people to the circus.

The general manager follows and make arrangements for feed, lot, accommodations for the advance men, livery teams and billboards. No detail of business is unfamiliar to him. Car No. 1 arrives in town a fortnight ahead of the show and immediately the work is begun billing the city and rural community reached by teams. Car No. 2 brings other billposters, lithographers and banner men. The work is to chiefly bill all towns reached by railroads and to do any work missed by the first car. The advance car No. 3 is used chiefly in opposition and only visits the cities where another circus is to appear. In such an instance the billing is frequently done weeks and often months in advance. There is a formidable concentration of forces and no stone is left unturned to gain advantage. At regular intervals route riders and checking up agents appear who inspect every piece of advertising matter. A week ahead of the show travels the brigade whose work is to place cloth banners on buildings and to distribute booklets and circus newspapers in every home within a radius of thirty miles of the exhibition city. The press agents look after the newspaper advertising. The twenty-four hour agent is the last advance man to reach the show "stand."

The arenic tent of the Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus is 540 feet in length and among the largest reaches of canvas ever constructed. It is supported chiefly by six gigantic oak poles, larger than the largest mast on a sea sailing vessel. The performance is given in six arenas. The Carl Hagenbeck trained wild animals appear in an immense steel-girded arena in the center of the "big top." It is reached by the animals through a steel chute leading from the menagerie where the cages are all vestibuled, allowing egress.

The Carl Hagenbeck-Wallace circus represents an intrinsic monument to the endeavors of B. E. Wallace. The beginning of the great institution was in 1884 when a poor livery stable keeper left Peru, Ind., with a single wagon drawn by two horses. From the very first obstacles came thick and fast, yet the show, with a degree of regularity, until finally the horses were attached. Nothing daunted the "Hoolier" showman and he pluckily placed his watch in pawn and with a few trained dogs and a couple of attendants walked to the next exhibition city where a performance was given in a town hall.

B. E. Wallace was the first circus man to conduct a show upon sound business like principles allowing no dishonest methods on the part of the employees. For these reasons he was fought by unscrupulous showmen. Yet his aggressive methods began to slowly win out and in 1889 the circus began to move from city to city on a single railroad car. Each year the show grew and for twenty years all of the profits were placed in new equipment and invested in wild animals.

In 1905 the Wallace circus reached a size that it was unequalled by any in the country, yet at the conclusion of the St. Louis Fair the Carl Hagenbeck trained wild animal show was combined, effecting the largest consolidation in circus annals.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus returned several years ago from an extensive tour of Europe. The conquest of the old world by the big show will live forever in the stirring history of tented organizations. It made the enterprise an object of international interest.

GIVE ONE DAY'S INCOME TO THE ORPHANAGE WORK

Relying on the generosity and public spirit of the Press of the State the undersigned are emboldened to ask of our newspapers such timely and telling help as they are able to give us in impressing upon every man, woman and child in the State of North Carolina the importance of contributing one day's labor to the orphanage work of the State as a Thanksgiving offering.

The orphanages of the State are contributing largely to the enrichment of the life of North Carolina. They are gathering up the waste material and transforming it into valuable citizenship. They, more than any other institutions of whatever kind, are beginning at the beginning of things. They are molding indigent childhood into useful manhood and womanhood exactly at the point where the process of training is vital; and they are doing this work for the most part without the cost of a copper to the State.

The movement to secure a contribution of one day's labor from every citizen was begun last spring. At a meeting held in Raleigh September 28, the Executive Committee met and formally launched the campaign. The editors of North Carolina were the men toward whom the members of the Committee first turned their eyes. We are counting on these men who, more than any others, shape and control our public sentiment to stand by us in this movement and make the next Thanksgiving notable in the annals of the State's history.

We are often called on to do honor to the dead and this is a sentiment that is creditable and worthy, but in this movement we are called upon to perform a service for the living at a time and place where that service will tell most mightily on coming ages. Thousands of children are safely sheltered in our Orphan Homes, but four times as many are as yet uncared for and left to shift for themselves in a world of temptation and peril without a father's counsel or a mother's care—without a home, a penny, or a friend! It is primarily in behalf of these homeless ones that this movement is launched. We must enlarge our orphanages and admit more of the little ones on the outside, who are clamoring to come in. Each institution in the State is crowded to its utmost capacity, with a stream of children standing at the gates and crying for admission. If a tithe of the citizens of North Carolina will give the price of one day's labor to the orphanage work it will mean the salvation of a thousand North Carolina children now on their way to the dogs and the devil. Is this work not worthy of the best effort of every good citizen? It is our hope that every North Carolina pastor will freely and gladly give his best efforts to the advancement of this movement. We hope and believe that they will urge those of their congregations who have an income to sacredly set apart one day's work to this great cause, and send it forward to the orphanage of his choice on or near Thanksgiving Day.

Fellow citizens, this is no child's play. It is a man's job. The pennies of the children are not to be despised. Every gift, however little, helps the object to which it is given, and helps the giver more; but we are not appealing especially to children in this movement, but to men and women who are busy in the world's work. And knowing the spirit and temper of our North Carolina people, we do not believe that we will appeal in vain.

HON. JOHN P. GRACE
Mayor of Charleston.

PEACE is a theme that stands uppermost in the minds of the peoples of the world today. In Europe where the war beast is ravishing and destroying the institutions created by mankind during the centuries of social and economic evolution, the minds of men are reverting
to the desire for the blessings of peace.
A year of "A world at war," has challenged the progress of civilization, and wiped out the noblest of human achievements.

Go and look out over the once fair fields of Europe now all trampled and grave-furrowed; and upon the blackened ruins of its magnificent cities;
then contrast the conditions which fifty years of internal peace have produced in the United States,—years that have raised our country to the premier position among the nations of the world—and the tragic futility of war is forcefully apparent.

When we stop and mentally contrast the torn, bleeding, devastated Europe of today—a continent drunk
with the destructive madness of war and the condition of the America of today, there comes the positive conviction that we must avoid Europe's calamity. This is possible only through the study and cultivation of those things which make for peace. The United States is still a partisan of warlike principles, and while we as yet are at peace, the danger of war hovers over us even as it did in 1861, to celebrate the victories of a half century of peace
among the States of our Union.

The rabid venom of war lurks yet
in our veins, waiting possibly only for the exhibition of blood to call it into action and plunge the nation into the red frenzy of the world-war.

Victories Of Peace.

What has gone on in Belgium,
France and Poland during the past year went on in the South fifty years ago. In 1865 South Carolina suffered Belgium's fate, and it is thus to celebrate "The Victories of Peace," and to advance those interests that constitute America's greatest preparedness against war, that the deliberations of the Seventh Annual Convention of The Southern Commercial Congress,
to be held at Charleston, South Carolina, December 13-17, 1915, will center around the general theme of "Peace."

Some of the most notable men of the nation have already signified their intention of taking part in the Charlestown program, which will be devoted to fifteen specific subjects, each embracing vital problems which must be met and worked out as the South and the Nation move on to our predestined economic and social eminence. These subjects include Peace, Education, National Defense, Public Health, Public Efficiency, Social Conditions, Drainage, Rivers and Harbors, Foreign Trade, Merchant Marine, Cotton, Rural Credit, Marketing, Good Roads and Agricultural Colonization.

South's Recovery.

This meeting, being the last, promises to be the largest and most important of the series of five great conventions that has been carried out by The Southern Commercial Congress in the years 1911-1915, to portray the South's recovery during the past fifty years.

The meeting in 1911 at Atlanta, Georgia, was devoted to a review of "The South's Physical Recovery;" in 1912 the convention assembled at Nashville, Tennessee, was planned to exhibit "The South's Agricultural and Educational Recovery"—this meeting launched the national movement for the establishment of a rural credit system; at Mobile, Alabama, in 1913,
"The South's Commercial Recovery," was the central theme around which the relation of the Panama Canal to the foreign commerce of the Southern States was emphasized; the fourth meeting of the series planned for 1914

and held at Muskogee, Oklahoma, was devoted to a review of the problems of Agriculture, Immigration, Public Efficiency, and Foreign Trade as they relate to the future economic development of the South.

The fifth and last of this series of meetings will be assembled in Charlestown, South Carolina, to celebrate "The Victories of Fifty Years of Peace" in the South, and to plan a schedule of constructive activities for the future.

Grimky's Birthplace.

Charleston, where this great meeting will be staged, is the birthplace of Thomas S. Grimky, one of America's most brilliant advocates of peace, who helped to establish the American Peace Society in 1825.

It was this son of the South who said in 1832 that, "The greatest objection to war is not so much the number of lives, and the amount of property it destroys, as its moral influence on nations and individuals. It creates and perpetuates national jealousy, fear, hatred and envy. It arrogates to itself the prerogative of the Greatest, only to involve the innocent multitude
in the punishment of the guilty few.
It corrupts the moral taste, and hardens the heart; cherishes and strengthens the base and violent passions; destroys the distinguishing features of Christian charity, its universality, and its love of enemies; turns into mockery
and contempt the test virtue of Christians, humility; weakens the sense of moral obligation, banishes the spirit of improvement, usefulness and benevolence, and inculcates the horrible maxim, that murder and robbery are matters of state expediency."

Law Of Violence.

Among the many eloquent pleas for the abolition of war that this early citizen of Charleston uttered, Grimky's famous denunciation of the "law of violence" is possibly of greater value today than when it was written nearly one hundred years ago.

"War," he said, "is the law of violence, peace the law of love. But governments seem to be successfully organized only when strong for the destruction of others."

"We might imagine, if history attested not to the reverse, that an experiment of four thousand years would suffice to prove that the rational ends

of society can never be attained by constructing its institutions in conformity with the standard of war; but the sword and the torch have been eloquent in vain.

"A thousand battlefields, white with the bones of brothers are counted as idle advocates of justice and humanity. Ten thousand cities, abandoned to the cruelty and licentiousness of the soldiery; and burnt, or dismantled, or razed to the ground, plead in vain against the law of violence. The river, the lake, the sea, crimson with the blood of fellow citizens, and neighbors and strangers, lift up their voices in vain to denounce the folly and wickedness of war. The shrieks and agonies, the rage and hatred, the wounds and curses of the battlefield,
and the storm and the sack, scatter
in vain their warnings throughout all lands.

"As the ages have rolled away, however, society has lost its military character, but the administration of government and the spirit of rulers have remained the same. The people have changed, but the great, permanent institutions of society partake not of the same new spirit.

"The sword is still the sceptre of the monarch, the casque of the warrior
his favorite crown.

"Governments, instead of being the fountains of peace abroad and of happiness at home, tend to become instruments of misery and injustice in the hands of rulers. This state of things still prevails; for experience
testifies that, if the law of war be no longer the fundamental-law of European society, it is still the fundamental-law of their governments.

"The interest and happiness of the people are hostile to war; and, if left to themselves, however ignorant and uneducated, they would scarcely ever make war. Even the most ignorant states of society contain in themselves
the elements of peace.

"It is only through education, however, that the people can exercise a wholesome control over their rulers

who would have them engage in war.
Education is the most efficient and lasting means for revolutionizing society. But the whole scheme of education must be in its elements, practice and influence, decidedly, unchangeably peaceful."

Charleston An Example.

Charleston, where clustering traditions of the Old South have given birth to the highest ideals and ambitions of the New South, is a most appropriate place for this great peace meeting of Americans. Here beside the tomb of Calhoun and under the protection of the modern guns of old Fort Sumter—here where the first shot of the Civil War was fired—will be celebrated the achievements of the re-united country.

Looking back to the Charleston that was blighted by the Civil War—to that city which the anger of a war-maddened enemy laid waste—and comparing it with the Charleston of today
which proudly points to the successful development of its magnificent deep-water harbor, its great modern coaling piers, splendid system of docks,
and efficient Navy Yards, is found a worthy example of the economic rehabilitation that is building "A Greater Nation through a Greater South."

Charleston Of Today.

In 1860 the population of Charlestown was less than 40,000—today it exceeds 60,000. The inbound and outbound commerce annually passing through the Port of Charleston reaches the total value of nearly $110,000,000;
while the city's total banking resources approximates nearly $30,000,000. The manufacturing industries of Charlestown support a total capital investment of nearly $30,000,000, create new wealth in annual products valued at about $20,000,000, and maintain an annual payroll of over $4,500,000.

Charleston is awake to the "spirit of the times," and it is thus eminently fitting that this semi-centennial of peace should be held where the ravage-marks of war have been so well concealed in the rebuilding of the new city. The glories of peace and human progress

are exemplified here where the men and women of the North, East, West and South of our re-united country can assemble to blaze them where the peoples of the whole world can see and profit by the lessons they teach—blaze them where the war-racked peoples of the old world can look up from the ruins of their homes and find in them relief for their suffering and inspiration and strength to meet the heavy burdens that the coming years will place upon them.

Work Of The Congress.

The Southern Commercial Congress,
the organization that is arranging for this meeting in Charleston, initiated the movement in the United States for the investigation of agricultural organization in European countries. The result was the assembling of the American Commission composed of sixty-eight members, representing twenty-nine states, the District of Columbia, and four Canadian provinces, which made an investigation of agricultural organization in eighteen countries of Europe. This work was accomplished in co-operation with the United States Commission, appointed by President Wilson.

The evidence secured by the commission has been published by the Congress of the United States and will be the basis of State and Federal legislation in solving the problems, in a national way, of rural finance, production, distribution, and organization.
It is doubtful whether so much valuable first-hand material on the subjects of agricultural credit and of agricultural co-operation in general has ever before been brought together, in any language, as in this volume of "evidence."

Trade And Municipal Investigations.

The Congress has also conducted a commercial expedition to Latin America that has helped in establishing ties
of friendship and which made a practical investigation of finance and commerce in the interest of the extension of American trade. It later assembled the American Commission of Municipal Executives which participated in the International Municipal Congress of 1914, in London, and thereafter made an investigation of municipal efficiency in European cities.

Initiated at Chattanooga.

As a movement, The Southern Commercial Congress sprang full grown from the Southern Commercial Secretaries' Association at the annual meeting of that organization in Chattanooga in 1908, which decided that there were certain conditions existing in the South and outside of it that could only be met by a union of effort,
and, further, that if such a union of effort did not exist, State by State, throughout the South, then, without waiting for the slow process of gradual unification a meeting should be held to declare that such a union did exist. The organization was subsequently established in Washington on December 8, 1908, with the full dignity of its name and its purpose, and was incorporated under the laws of the "District of Columbia, July 21, 1911. The clear judgment of the men who started the movement is confirmed by the fact that in seven years
the words "The Southern Commercial Congress," have become known throughout the nation, the influence of its efforts for union have been felt throughout the South, while it is now recognized as a practical force for good, both here and abroad.

Chords and Discords

In October.

The frost is on the pumpkin, and the fiddler's in the shock, sings the poet, which being interpreted in plain language means that October has come. Poets have found much joy in singing of the charms of this month, which to many is one of the most beautiful of all the year. It is then that the trees begin to turn to the most beautiful red and gold. And then, too, the sunsets with their tints and colors are the most charming of all the seasons.

Yes, October is here, reminding us that life at its best is short and soon passes. But living is worth while so long as we can enjoy the myriad beauties that nature has provided. James Whitcomb Riley, the Indiana poet, in his own inimitable style, sings of this month of months:

"I love old October so I can't bear to see her go;
Seems like losing some Old home, relative, or chum.
'Fears like sortin' settin' by Some old friend 'at sigh by sigh
Was a passin' out o' sight
Into everlasting night."

Playing Chess.

He who would play chess must have patience. It is a game that appeals to those of mathematical turn of mind but not to those of active impulsive temperaments. It possesses a fascination that appeals strongly to those who would feel the joy of strife of the battlefield without being subjected to its dangers.

Time is an important element in chess and he who would be an expert in this ancient game must give to it days of laborious thinking. It is not a game for the lazy man or for the laggard but it has little fascination for the man who wants to see something doing every minute unless it comes to him when he is sitting at a chessboard and he is said that when recently a man came to Wilmington and saw two leading professional men poring long and intently at a chessboard without ever making a move of any kind, he wanted to know if they were sick or just ordinary fools. It was beyond him to understand that they could find any fun in simply doing nothing.

The Man of Interest.

She didn't describe him except to say that he is the man of interest. She had survived many courtships of a more or less serious nature but whether she considered this a courtship or not she didn't say. For her, however, he was at the time the man of interest and she was finding much interest in studying him.

Doubtless the man didn't think of it that way. He may have been one of those serious minded mortals, who find little in life of interest unless it concerns his own welfare. He probably was serious in his intentions but for her he was just another one of the species.

Some times men—poor mortals—seem to be dead to the world, but by looking beneath the surface it may be possible to detect something out of the ordinary that helps to relieve the monotony.

The man of interest may not always be interesting except as another specimen. But it's some consolation to a man to know that he may even be considered worthy of attention as a specimen if that and nothing more.

The Changing Fashions.

Not long ago a North Carolina editor wrote that he had decided to take back all that he had said about the new fashions for women after having inspected the new styles prescribed for the men. And truth to say, the men have become about as fastidious as the women. It wasn't so long ago when a man could dress the same year in and year out and still be in style but that time has past.

The makers of clothing, hats and shoes, have discovered that by putting out an entirely new set of styles once or twice a year, they can induce a great many men to make purchases, who would not otherwise do so. Nobody—not even the men—wants to be considered a back number when it comes to clothing.

Being a mere man, we desist from making any remarks about the styles for women although it seems that the originators of the new fashions are still determined to limit the supply of material as far as possible. The same is true of the men. But there is not so much said about it in the latter case.

"Down by the Silvery Sea."

It remained for the telegraph editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, who is evidently in a poetical turn of mind, to give Wilmington a new designation. In sentimental tenderness, suggested no doubt by the days when he wrote love letters, he denominates these environs as "down by the silvery sea."

Well, old sea, you have it right and although you have never visited this garden spot of the earth, you have by your line read for the eternal fitness of things, made those fortunate ones, who have the privilege of living in the city by the sea feel that they, too, would like to become sentimental and forget the humdrum toll of daily tasks and brask in the moonlight of these beautiful fall nights.

We are right fond of our ocean and while perhaps it has become so common to us that we cannot appreciate it as we should, we are glad to have

IS NOW CURED

Hillsboro, Ala.—J. W. Turner, of this place, says: "I ought to have written you two weeks ago, but failed to do so. I got well and then forgot to write you. I can get about like a 10-year-old boy; you ought to see me run around and tend to my farm. I can go all day just like I used to. I am so thankful to know there is such a good remedy to cure people of pellagra."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the resourceful Dr. J. B. McCabe.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, with much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea, either diarrhoea or constipation.

There is hope; get Baughn's big Free book on Pellagra and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Compounding Co., box 2997, Jasper, Ala., remembering money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure. Adv't.

some of its beauty suggested to us by outsiders who can. Like a sweet morsel to a hungry man is the descriptive phrase so tenderly bestowed upon our city by one who pictures in his mind the beauty of the silvery sheen of the rolling waters when the rays of an autumn moon is showered down upon them.

Her Point of View.

A well known Wilmington physician likes to tell his friends about a certain old colored woman whom he used to visit. She had been ill for a number of years and this physician made it a rule to call on her regularly to see that she was being properly cared for and to give her any medicine she might need. However, he never got anything for his trouble.

"Do you know Auntie," he remarked one day when he was making a regular call, "that if all my patients treated me like you do that I wouldn't be able to make a living practicing medicine. What would I do, if they all treated me like you do?"

"Well, doctor, I s'pose you'd jest haf ter go ter work like de res' of us do," she replied.

Things As They Are.

A Wilmington man, who isn't in the newspaper business, has promised some of these days to write a book on things as they are and he is of the opinion that it will be interesting reading. It will. But if he writes it, he will have to be sure that it is about things as they are somewhere else, if he wants folks to read it here. Not that Wilmington is a bad place. There are many who believe it to be the best spot on earth for pure unadulterated happiness.

But folks don't want to know the truth about themselves. If they did there would not be so much fiction read. Life has enough of the humdrum about it without our having to be told more about things that are out of gear. We'd rather hear something about the romantic and the unreal. We want to forget about our troubles and the sordid affairs with which we have to be concerned most of the time.

CARTER-ADAMS NUPTIALS.

Marriage of Popular Young People at Wallace.

(Special Star Correspondence.) Wallace, N. C., Oct. 13.—One of the most brilliant events of the season was the wedding of Miss Ethel Mae Carter, the lovely and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Carter, of this place, who became the bride of Mr. Charles Blackall Adams, on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, in the Presbyterian church.

The church was most elaborately and artistically decorated in cascades of ferns, golden rod and candles, the color scheme of yellow and white was carried out most effectively.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Lucile Majette, of Wilson, rendered a beautiful musical programme. To the wedding march from Lohengrin the bridal party entered. The ushers, Messrs. Carter and Adams, brother and nephew of the bride, Ben Leonard, of Wilmington, N. C., and Luke Boney, of Wallace, N. C., were followed by the groomsmen, Messrs. Bert Taylor, Pearl Harris, William Landis and James White, all of Oxford; and the bridesmaids, Misses Margaret Bells Leonard, Edna Griffith, of Richmond, Va.; Jessie Fleetwood, of Jackson, and Jette Briggens, of Bladenboro, all being attired in quaint white satin dresses, with an overdress of tulle and silver, and a long white tulle scarf caught in the hair with pearl ornaments carrying yellow chrysanthemums. Next came the dame or honor, Mrs. Luke Boney, of Wallace, N. C., sister of the bride, and most charming in a white bride's satin train, trimmed in lace, pearls and rhinestones, and carrying yellow and white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor, Miss Lillie Carter, sister of the bride, was most exquisitely gowned in a Paris creation of yellow satin and gold lace, extending from the French bow in her hair was a soft flow of yellow tulle, and carrying white chrysanthemums, indeed made a lovely picture.

Just preceding the bride were the two little flower girls, Dorothy Westcott Carter and Annette Carter Boney, nieces of the bride, dressed daintily in white accordion pleated crepe de chine carrying miniature bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. N. H. Carter, who gave her in marriage, the beautiful young bride. Never did she look more lovely than in her wedding robe of duchesse satin, which set off to perfection her dainty loveliness, it being trimmed in real lace, rhinestones and pearl ornaments, and carrying a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley and white chrysanthemums. The only jewel she wore was a platinum la valiere inlaid with diamonds, a gift of the groom.

The groom, with his father, Mr. W. A. Adams, of Oxford, as best man, and officiating minister, the Rev. C. V. Brooks, pastor of the Baptist church, entered from the vestry and met the party at the altar, the full ring service being used. The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Adams left at 8:15 for an extended northern trip. The bride's going-away gown was a very smart suit of five course wedding breakfast was served, given the bride party, the color scheme of yellow and white being most effectively carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams were the recipients of many handsome and beautiful gifts, which came from all parts of the State, they being very popular in a wide circle of friends.

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 15.—Theodore Partick, a newspaperman of Clinton, will make an address in St. Mary's Episcopal church here tomorrow. The rector, Rev. John H. Griffith, will preach the regular sermon to the students of the University at Chapel Hill in the morning, and to a mixed congregation in the University town at evening.

DEATH AT MOUNT OLIVE.

Mrs. Frances Hubbard Passes Away After Several Months' Illness.

(Special Star Correspondence.) Mt. Olive, N. C., Oct. 16.—Following several months' ill health due to a complication of internal disorders, Mrs. Frances Hubbard, about 55 years of age, died at her home here this morning about 3 o'clock. One daughter, Miss Beattie Hubbard, who resided with her mother; one son, James Hubbard, and other near relatives, most of whom reside near Warsaw, survive her. The remains were interred this afternoon.

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 16.—The Atlantic Coast Line will erect a new freight depot immediately and the plans are ready. The building will be 470 feet long and 60 feet wide and will extend from Barnes street to Smith street and will be located on the west side of the railway right of way. The old loading shed will be torn away.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Wilmington Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Wilmington woman testified long ago.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. Maggie Rivenbark, 105 Dock St., Wilmington, says: "I suffered from a constant dull ache in my back and joints. Some days, I could hardly get about the house. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and highly colored. I had no strength, and mornings felt tired and languid. I used several medicines, but nothing gave me much relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Bellamy's Drug Store. They proved to be just what I required. They cured the backaches, cleared up the kidney secretions and regulated the action of my kidneys." (Statement given February 25, 1908.)

On April 8, 1915, Miss Rivenbark said: "Whenever I notice any signs of kidney disorder, I take a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to do me good." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Maggie Rivenbark used. Foster-McMillan Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Small-Size Tires

Sizes 30 x 3 1/2 and 30 x 3

Goodyear tires won't top place
by giving more than others. For that reason alone these tires for years have outsold any rival.

This year we are giving to users of small tires three more costly extras. Now Goodyear tires in these sizes, more than ever before, excel any like-size tire.

3 More Extras

We have added 20 per cent
to the air capacity. Added size,
as you know, adds mileage.

We have added 30 per cent
more rubber to the side walls—to the part above the rim. That's where constant bending breaks
a thin-walled tire.

We have made
new molds of a new design
which adds endurance, we have found.

GOOD YEAR
TIRES
$317,000 in Extras

Lower Prices

These new extras alone, on this year's output, will cost us $317,000.
They will save our users ten times that, perhaps.

Yet this year we made another big price reduction. It was our third in two years, totaling 45 per cent. That's one result of mammoth output—a value no one else can give.

Even in size 30x3, in Goodyears, you get a four-ply tire. In our All-Weather tread, you get a double-thick anti-skid. Now you get this extra size and extra strength. More than ever you owe yourself the use of Goodyear tires. No other make compares with them in low
average cost per mile. A half-million users have proved that.

THE STORY OF EDISON

Interesting Life of the Genius Who Gave to the World the Electric Light, the Talking Machine and Moving Pictures.

SUMMARY OF EDISON'S LIFE STORY

- 1847—Born February 11, at Milan, Ohio.
 1854—Moved to Port Huron, Mich.
 1855—Started chemical laboratory in cellar of home.
 1859—Newsboy on Grand Trunk trains.
 1862—Published "The Weekly Herald" on Grand Trunk trains. Saved life of son of station agent at Mt. Clemens, Mich. Boy's father teaches Edison telegraphy. Built amateur telegraph line and worked in railroad station.
 1863—Worked as telegraph operator in various cities, always studying and improving telegraph apparatus. Granted first patent for vote recording machine.
 1869—Reached New York penniless. Happened in stock ticker office just as apparatus breaks down. No one but Edison could fix it. Given position of superintendent at $300 a month. Devises new and better stock tickers.
 1880—Receiving first money, $40,000 for ticker invention.
 1871—Helps patent typewriter.
 1872—Brought out many new inventions in telegraph apparatus. Opened Menlo Park laboratory.
 1877—Invented telephone transmitter which made telephony commercially possible.
 1879—Invented electric lamp. Produced entire electrical system, new machinery, instruments, etc.
 1880—Experimented with first electric railway.
 1881—Invented motion picture machine.
 1891—1900—Produced new storage battery. Perfected concrete machinery and concrete houses.
 1900—Made many new improvements to the talking machine and the phonograph.

The man who has astonished the world with his creative genius, who gave us such wonderful things as the electric light, the talking machine and motion pictures, was born at Milan, Ohio, February 11, 1847. In his boyhood Edison was a hustler, a few years ago, in the hurried flight of time, when "Tom" Edison was selling newspapers on the Grand Trunk trains, calling out the headlines of Civil War battles, when he was an itinerant, penniless telegraph operator, traveling from city to city, always poor and sometimes hungry. Today he is the greatest American genius the foremost inventor, the greatest of his industry, the best known and most honored man in the world.

Samuel Edison, the father of Thomas, kept a hotel at Vienna, Canada, on Lake Erie. He married Miss Nancy Elliott, a school teacher, in 1828. Samuel Edison took part in the revolt against England and, because of this, removed to Milan, Ohio, in 1842, where Thomas Alva was born in 1847. As a boy Edison was not strong and, therefore, did not go to school as soon as most boys of that day. In the meantime the family removed to Port Huron, Mich. Samuel Edison was active in the grain and lumber business and prospered. The family was well-to-do and prominent in the society of the community.

Edison Declared a Dunce.
 About this time Thomas Alva started bravely out to school. For three months he stood patiently at the foot of his class, then his teachers gave him up in despair. He was sent home and one of the instructors confided to Edison's father that the boy was a dunce. Edison never ventured inside a schoolhouse again, but he was trying to learn. His mother took up the task of the boy's education and how well she succeeded has been evidenced in later years. In the cellar of his home Edison installed his first "laboratory" where he performed certain dubious chemical experiments and tested out the formulas encountered in his scientific reading. It was to secure money for these experiments that Edison turned newsboy and in 1859 he began selling papers on the trains of the Grand Trunk between Port Huron and Detroit. Nearly all the profits from this enterprise went to support his laboratory and chemical experiments. And very soon he had installed in the baggage car a small laboratory where he could experiment during the leisure hours of the daily run. Because of an accident in this laboratory, which set fire to the car, Edison was thrown off the train and this ended his career as a newsboy.

Edison also established "The Weekly Herald," the first newspaper ever printed on a moving train, which he ran for some time to augment his earnings from the sale of newspapers. About this time he saved from death the young son of J. U. Mackenzie, the station agent at Mount Clemens, Mich., and in gratitude the father taught Edison telegraphy. Edison put up a small telegraph line between his home and that of a boy friend. Thus began the long years when Edison worked at telegraphy and traveled all over the country. For five years Edison drifted from place to place, working at his trade, never staying long in any one city. Some of his experiences during those roving days, as related by Edison today, are very laughable.

In 1868 Edison drifted to Boston. He was one of the best telegraphers in the business and being possessed of an inventive and scientific turn of mind it was not surprising that he should begin to develop new and better telegraph apparatus. In the Boston office of the Western Union he began his experiments and study necessary for perfecting his duplex system of telegraphy. On the 11th day of October, 1868, he was granted his first patent for an electrical vote recorder. He tried to get Congress interested in this, but failed. From Boston he went to New York. He did not have a cent with which to buy breakfast. He landed in the big city poor and in debt. An old associate loaned him a dollar. For days he haunted the telegraph offices looking for work. One day he happened in the office of the Gold & Stock Telegraph Company just when their system broke down. For a time the various employees of the place tried to adjust the mechanism while the rooms were besieged with messengers from brokers' offices demanding that the service be restored. At last Edison volunteered to help and soon had the system in order. As a result of this he was given a job as superintendent at $300 a month, more money than he had ever received before.

Edison Sells First Invention.
 Soon after this Edison went into partnership with Franklin L. Pope, an electrical engineer and began to make new and improved stock tickers. In 1870 the Gold & Stock Telegraph Company made Edison an offer for his numerous improvements and inventions relating to tickers. Edison determined to ask for $5,000 but quickly dropped to $3,000, and when the time came he could not even name this sum and asked the company to make him an offer. Their first offer was for $40,000 and Edison says he came as near fainting as he ever did. They gave him a check for this amount but he had never cashed a check before. Being deaf he did not hear what the paying teller said about an endorsement and turned away from the window with the idea he had been cheated. When they told him to endorse the check, and sent a man along to identify him, Edison received the money, all in small bills, which quite filled his pockets. He then went to his home in Newark and sat up all night with the money for fear it might be stolen. The next day a friend showed him how to deposit the money in a bank and open a check account. Now began the years of Edison's greatest activities when he worked 20 hours a day, standing upon wooden benches, in corridors and wherever he could. From 1869, the date of his first patent, up to the summer of 1910 no fewer than 1,328 separate patents have been applied for in his name. The height of his activity was in 1882 when 141 patents were applied for. He perfected automatic telegraphy, made a successful typewriter, perfected a device whereby four messages could be sent over the same wire, invented the phonograph and then spent several years working at the new telephone apparatus, perfecting the receiver.

 "The idea struck me all of a sudden," said Edison when in a reminiscence mood. "In those days there were a few arc lamps. It was easy to see what electric lighting needed—it wanted to be subdivided. The light was too bright and too big. What we wanted was little lights, and to distribute them to people's houses like gas."

Undaunted Perseverence.
 In the face of all this adverse criticism, Edison pursued the even tenor of his way, investigating and experimenting; for, as Edison says, "Impossible is an impossible word." Day after day and far into the watches of the night, he and his associates adhered to their research, snatching hasty meals at odd times and sleeping among the ropes and buckets in the closet under the stairs or stretched exhausted on some laboratory table. Of the investigation that was carried on before a suitable lamp filament was discovered, Edison merely said: "We saw that carbon was what we wanted. The next question was, what kind of carbon? I began to try various things and finally carbonized a strip of bamboo from a Japanese fan and found what we were seeking."

The Birth of the Lamp.
 Of the hour of victory, the birth of the Edison lamp on October 21, 1879, Edison says: "We sat and looked, and the lamp continued to burn, and the longer it burned the more fascinated we were. None of us could go to bed, and there was no sleep for over forty hours. We sat and watched it with anxiety and growing elation." The discovery of the incandescent lamp was but a small part of the task which confronted Edison in those busy days. It was necessary for him to produce a complete lighting system with lamps, conductors, insulators, measuring instruments, dynamos, switch boards, etc.

The First Central Station.
 Edison, speaking of this period, said, "I had the central station in mind all the time. I wanted to use 110 volts. Now, there is no use for you to ask me why, because I do not know, but somehow that figure stuck in my mind, and I had calculated that if we could get the voltage up that high, the copper cost would be somewhere in sight." In regard to installing his first central station—the old Pearl Street station in New York City—he said: "You cannot imagine how hard it was. There was nothing that we could buy or that anybody could make for us. There were no high-speed engines, and the manufacturers said they were impossible."

Mr. Porter (of the old Porter-Allen Engine Company) built for Edison his first high-speed engine, of 150 horsepower and 700 revolutions per minute. Edison says: "We set the machine up in the old shop, and as we had some idea of what might happen, we tied a chain round the throttle valve and ran it out through a window into the wood shed, where we stood to work it. It ran, oh yes, it ran! Every time she turned over, she shook the framework, and tried to lift the whole hill with her. Toned down to 350 revolutions, she ran satisfactorily, and everybody said, 'Why, how beautifully she runs and how practical such an engine is.' Now, don't you know, I knew that they would say that? Didn't you ever find out that trying to do the impossible makes about half the impossible seem easy?"

While this work was going on in the shop underground mains were being laid in New York. "During this period," says Edison, "I used to sleep nights on piles of pipe in the station." Finally, the great day for trying out the system arrived. "We started one engine and all was well, and we had 500 ohms resistance. Then we started another engine, and threw them in parallel. Of all the circuses since Adam was born, we had the worst then. One engine would stop and the other would run up to about 1,000 revolutions. Then they would see-saw. When the circus began, the gang bolted, and kept running for a couple of blocks. What was the matter? Why it was those darn Porter governors." By connecting all the governors together, the engines were finally made to behave.

Once, when a heavy load was unexpectedly thrown on, Edison called up his station and inquired "How is it at the station?" The reply came back, "Oh, bully! Everything is red hot, and the ammeter has made two revolutions!"

Lack of Instruments.
 Of switchboard instruments there were none. In his early work, Edison said, "We used to hang up a shingle nail—tied it alongside of a feeder, and that was our heavy current ammeter. It worked all right. When the nail came close to the feeder, we screwed up the rheostat a little, kept the lamps in the station looking about right."

While Edison was building his first electric lighting plant in New York City, after and smaller plants were being completed in Appleton, Wis. This was a small plant, the generator being driven by water power from a turbine wheel. The plant furnished current for but a few incandescent lamps but it has the honor of being the first commercial incandescent lighting installation in the world.

Mr. Stephens was well advanced in age, having for many years been a minister of the gospel. The funeral was conducted from Mt. Elm church this morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. W. S. Britt will leave Monday for Kershaw, S. C., where on Wednesday he will be married. After an extended bridal trip North, Mr. and Mrs. Britt will be at home to their friends in Lumberton.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Caldwell left Wednesday night for Pulaski, Va., Mrs. Caldwell's former home. She will spend some time with relatives, but Mr. Caldwell will return next week.

Cotton has been coming in freely all the week, the price causing many farmers to sell without waiting and taking chances.

Fresh eggs, old eggs, stale eggs, eggs of any kind are now selling here for 30 cents a dozen. Few are to be had at any price.

Mr. Fred T. Skipper, of Wilmington, arrived this morning to spend two or three days with relatives. Mr. Skipper is a nephew of the late Mrs. Ellen Linkhaw, and had not been here since he attended her funeral several years ago. He finds great improvement.

Mr. Marcus Jacob, of Wilmington, was here last night. He has many friends here who are always glad to see him.

Congressman Godwin was here for a few hours yesterday evening. A class of children from the Oxford Orphanage will give an entertainment in the opera house next Tuesday.

UNFORTUNATES SEE CIRCUS.
 Students of Caswell Training School Attend Performance at Kinston. (Special Star Correspondence.) Kinston, N. C., Oct. 16.—There sat in a reserved section at a circus here Thursday a lot of folks for whom the occasion was an epoch. The manager, hearing from Postmaster LaRogue of the Caswell Training school, the State institution for the feeble minded near here, invited the unfortunates there—mostly children—to see a performance as the management's guests. Superintendent McNairy gladly accepted the invitation for the little ones and the attendants escorted them to the tent. Many of them had never seen a circus before. Some of them did not understand all that they saw. But it seemed as though Providence had contrived for each little face and every quaint little mind a smile and appreciation.

At Goldsboro the day before the orphans from the Odd Fellows' home were similarly entertained.

BUD FISHER COMING.
 To Spend a Few Days at Havelock, N. C. Before Long. (Special Star Correspondence.) Kinston, N. C., Oct. 16.—"Bud" Fisher, originator of "Mutt and Jeff," is expected to spend a few days at the Havelock hunting camp in Craven county before long. Fisher visited the camp several years ago.

Dress Up!

By LIVY S. RICHARD

Very wise was Shakespeare. You remember he wrote: "The apparel oft proclaims the man."

Judge for yourself if this isn't true. How do YOU "size up" a man the first time you see him?

Not by his Brains. It takes time for them to come to a show down.

Not by his Character. Character can't be snap shot.

You judge him, you have to judge him, first off, by his Appearance—and that means more than the hang of his jaw or the cut of his hair; it also means whether his clothes fit and whether he dresses in good taste.

Rockefeller, Wilson, Edison, any man whose money or reputation is made, can wear any old thing and folks will either not notice the slouchiness because of thinking of what they know he has done or they will charge it up to the "whims of genius."

Incidentally, Wilson and Rockefeller are both good dressers.

But YOU, Mr. Average Man, haven't got the "genius" excuse. YOUR renown has yet to be accumulated. So it's very decidedly wise for you to put your best foot foremost.

I was in a great department store the other day watching the waiting line at the employment office. Dozens of eager youth longed to plant their feet on the first rungs of a career that would ladder them up among the Wanamakers, Marshall Fields, Filenes.

Who do you suppose lost out?

In every instance the fellow who looked shabby and dress-careless.

The employment manager told me afterward he didn't judge applicants' clothing by its quality.

"It may be cheap, because when a fellow's poor he, of course, can't buy broadcloth," he said. "But, it's got to be neat, clean and indicative of good taste. I can't take chances on a youngster who doesn't think enough of appearances to take pains not to look mussy."

So take a friendly tip, dear sir and brother.

DRESS UP!

Euthenics, the Science of Controllable Environment, by Ellen H. Richards. Published by Whitcomb & Barrows.

We are all familiar with the comparatively new term of Euthenics, but this author holds that Euthenics offers a field for immediate action—indeed should precede eugenics. Euthenics is defined as "the betterment of living conditions through conscious endeavor for the purpose of securing efficient human beings." This is to be developed through sanitary science, through education and through relating science to education and life.

The author makes very clear the enormous loss to the individual and the community due to preventable illness, and due to not being up to par physically. Preventive measures, such as medical inspection of schools, school nurses, quarantine, compulsory vaccination, sanitation enforced by city and state, more than pay for the money expended, by the increased efficiency of the individual.

Proper food is another requisite to perfect health. Knowledge as to what constitutes proper food needs to be more general, especially among housekeepers. More harm is done to health by ignoring physical law as to the matter of eating than in any other one thing.

Ventilation is another factor not fully appreciated. People subject their bodies to abusive treatment which would ruin any machine.

There is a fatal indifference to dirt—in our food—our air, our homes—and even our persons. Dirt is the prime carrier of disease.

Not charity is needed but preventive action. The responsibility of the home is very great. Bad rearing is worse than bad heredity. Most human efficiency is result of habits rather than of innate ability.

Man should be ashamed that he is the "sickest beast alive." Education on eugenics may be extended by use of exhibits, health exhibits, pure food exhibits, better babies contests, etc. Newspapers, magazines and lectures are other means of public education. Large fines for breaking sanitary laws, imposed in a few cases, will have immediate effect. Indifference of the people, the only stumbling block to national prosperity.

Future well-being of society is largely in the hands of women. We believe this book would help to waken any club who undertook its study. It is clear and direct and all through the author emphasizes cleanliness, indeed.

she says, "Cleanliness is above charity."

Two Books on Efficiency. Everywhere the slogan is efficiency and nowhere is there more need of this than in our homes. Too long have woman's time and woman's work been counted factors of no definite value—and woman herself has been largely to blame for this. But now her eyes are opened and "Increasing Home Efficiency" by Martha Bensley Bruere, and "The Efficient Kitchen" by George Boynton Child (McGraw, Nast & Co.) are veritable eye-openers.

"Increasing Home Efficiency" is witty and keen, and full of plain common sense. Witness the following: "It is not a man's fault to have a clean parlor if they have a dirty well?"

"Disasters are the idea that the running of a home can safely be left to instinct, moral sentiment and romantic inspiration."

"Inefficient homes are those with an undue proportion of sickness, homes which are inharmonious and unhappy, homes in which the members are engaged in work disadvantageous to the community."

The book is based on the results of answers to magazine articles, lectures, letters and journeys; answers from middle-class people in a wide variety of circumstances.

The Brueres are firm believers in the value of a budget system for each family. "A family budget is to the housekeeper what a set of blue prints is to the builder."

"It isn't by tight lacing the dollar bill that one is comfortable, but by making one's needs an easy fit to one's income."

"Budgets don't come ready-made, a dozen in the box, you've got to work out one for yourself, adapting it to your particular circumstances and aspirations."

"Hiring a servant isn't labor-saving, but labor-shifting. So housewives are catching at the modern labor-saving device, even when it is not a money saving device, as it should be."

The many particular families whose circumstances are analyzed and discussed furnish both profitable and entertaining food for thought.

"The Efficient Kitchen" is full of practical ideas. No detail is too trivial to be considered if it makes for better results with lower cost of time, labor and materials. "The idea of conservation of time, of energy and fuel, all costly commodities, is now the keynote of the perfect kitchen equipment—neither too much nor too little."

Various lists have been worked out showing just what is needed for different conditions. The advantages and disadvantages of the various types of fuel and equipment are carefully weighed and clearly discussed. Indeed, any housekeeper, actual or potential, will find in this book much to help her, if she desires to put her house-keeping on an efficient basis.

THE WOMAN WHO SPENDS.

By Bertha Jane Richardson; Published by Whitcomb & Barrows, $1.00.

"In olden times women thought and thought, and thought, before they spent; now women often spend and then think and think, and think."

Change in economic conditions have made women spenders rather than producers, though all women have not lost the art of producing. However, consumption is as important a part of economics as producing. One criterion of value is desire, but it is a mistake to aim too high in our desires. Satisfaction in buying must be assured. Purposeful spending is needed. In following a "prevailing sentiment" women need knowledge, independence and power to choose the best.

Every woman who contributes better standards of dress, food, home and habits for others to imitate, is adding to the prosperity of the nation, to say nothing of health and happiness. There is, however, such a thing as destructive imitation and purposeless imitation.

The woman who spends intelligently must know requirements for good, healthful dress, proper ventilation and sufficient exercise. Food is too often a question of amount and variety rather than of nutrition. Ignorance in this day of knowledge is unpardonable.

Dissatisfaction is not so much due to lack of income as of misuse of it. Not what we lack but what others have causes unrest. Economic responsibility cannot be shunned. The buyer is really responsible for cheaply made, badly constructed goods, made under bad conditions. The market furnishes what the buyer demands. One should buy with the eyes open, should know when women cease to consider economy as getting things cheap and begin to realize that cheapness begets cheapness—the quality of goods offered to them will be changed for the better.

The last chapter deals with the value of daily accounts—not so much to make them balance as to know just how the money goes, to see if we are keeping right proportions. Indeed, if daily accounts are carried monthly, the result is most enlightening.

THE HEALTHFUL FARMHOUSE

By a Farmer's Wife; Published by Whitcomb & Barrows, Boston.

This book gives practical help to farmers' wives on the problems they have to meet. It is written not for those who can build from the start, but for those who have a home already built but poorly arranged.

Many are the suggestions offered to save labor and make it more enjoyable. Kitchen shed, cellar, dining room, and even the dog house and hall are all discussed in a most practical way.

Matters of heat, ventilation, cleanliness and other matters that pertain to health are treated in an interesting and practical way.

A little book of but seventy pages will be an inspiration to those farmers' wives who have a vision of better things but have supposed that their surroundings were inevitable. It is not true to tamely submit to what can be bettered.

Questions at the end of each chapter lead the reader to test her own home to see how it measures up to the standard.

SECOND COURSE IN HOME-MAKING

By Mabel Hyde Kittredge.

This book, while designed as text book for pupils, will be used by women's clubs, who want a book both practical and simple. The chapters are designed to accompany the actual performance of the processes.

The chapter on laundry work shows that science and intelligence are essential to best results.

Sensible diet, division of income, and marketing are titles of other lessons.

The last third of the book is made up of receipts for simple and wholesome dishes, at small expense.

A convenient feature is the tables of weights and measures, e. g., 2 cups chopped meat, 1 lb. Table of proportions, e. g., 2 teaspoons soda to 1 pint sour milk.

And time tables for roasting and baking.

The book as a whole is practical and especially valuable in teaching whole home making for families of small income. Published by Century Co.

Portugal.

Five hundred years ago, the span of a few generations, Portugal was the greatest maritime power, preceding Great Britain in that eminence. The Portuguese first explored the two coasts of Africa. The Cape of Good Hope was doubled by Bartholomew Diaz in 1486. Vasco da Gama reached India, via Cape of Good Hope, eleven years later. In 1500 King Emanuel ascended the throne of Portugal and assumed the title of "lord of the conquest, navigation and commerce of India, Ethiopia, Arabia and Persia." In that year the Portuguese made settlements in Brazil. History is a catalogue of dreams. The dream of empire is nearly the oldest one. Its star is very flickle.

The Poet's Peacock.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti had an irresistible tendency to purchase rare and beautiful birds and beasts that appealed to his poetic or artistic fancy. Ellen Terry tells in "The Story of My Life" of his once buying an exquisite white peacock, which very soon after its arrival at his home disappeared under the sofa. In vain did Rossetti "shoo" it out. It refused to budge. This went on for days.

"The lovely creature won't respond to me," said Rossetti to a friend. The friend dragged out the bird. "No wonder," said he; "it's dead!"

Size of the Earth.

The diameter of the earth from pole to pole is 7,899 miles, the equatorial diameter being 7,923 miles. The slight difference of diameter is owing to the flattening out of the poles.

Topic for Sunday, October 17, 1915.
THE RESPONSIBILITY OF OUR SOCIETY FOR THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNIONS—LOCAL, STATE AND NATIONAL.

Psalm 133:1-3.
"Behold, how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! It is like the precious ointment upon the head that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard; that went down to the skirts of his garments; as the dew of Hermon and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life for evermore."

The principle involved in the topic for this meeting is the principle of the right relation of parts to the whole. The strength of the whole is the strength of the parts. If each part does its full measure then the whole has a power of its own greater than the sum of the powers of all the parts. In every living body this is true. The life of the whole is more than the combined life of the parts, provided each part contributes its share. But if any part does not contribute its full share, then the life and strength of the whole is less even than the contributions of the faithful parts. For the infidelity or delinquency of one part not only subtracts the contribution of that one part but destroys the organic unity of the whole and weakens and depreciates the co-operation and combination of the rest. It is better that there were no such faithless parts at all and that the whole body should be free to try to organize a new life without it.

It is undoubtedly true that a co-operation of Christians Endeavorers has not only developed the Christian Endeavor movement, but has been a great blessing to the world. When young people have combined to build a better world, the world has returned a blessing to each of those who helped to build it.

The State Unions can better apporportion the projected work which their ambitions and desires lead them to perform. Co-operation in the State unions enables them to import experienced teachers and helpers who can plant suggestions in the minds of the representatives throughout the State.

Who dare calculate the value and effect of the National Union? Great men have spoken with great power to great gatherings of young people with great effect. The content of their talks are enthusiasm, builders, and enthusiasm is worth the price at any cost. The expense account when measured with the benefits which accrue from co-operation is small in comparison with the outcome. On the 25th anniversary of the Christian Endeavor movement some of the greatest men of this nation and of other nations wrote letters of congratulation, which showed its far-reaching power and influence.

If these benefits are possibilities, then we are responsible for them; and we are not content until they are realized. What one can do ought to do and thus a reasonable possibility becomes an obligation. An obligation is a debt; and a debt ought to be paid.

Unions are the embodiment of union. Our responsibility for them is responsibility for the spirit of unity. They are valuable because they express this spirit and also because they foster it. They provide acquaintance and reveal common aims and purposes. They show us how much we have in sympathy with one another and how much more we can accomplish unitedly. They give us new ideas and plans and show us that things can be done from which we had flinched.

If we cannot allow our Lord fully to accomplish his wish that we may be one as He and His Father are one, or if we cannot agree as yet as to what unity means, let us at least go as far as we can in our united efforts and service.

If our hearts are one we may be sure that our hands will find common work to be done.

The many members may be many but they are not members unless they work together. Members must be members of something. That thing is more important than the members.

In Office.

An office in a Christian Endeavor Society is a sacred trust to be administered in the fear and love of God.

It is not to be accepted lightly, not lightly to be rejected. It is to be accepted when it is felt to be a real call from God in a spirit of humility and yet of confident faith.

The United Society has helped for all officers, and it is easy to obtain them. No officer should attempt to find out through his blunders and mistakes what he might know from the start, and thus be far more efficient.

Magnify your office. Make the most of it, not only for the sake of self development and the progress of the society, but chiefly to please the Master who has placed you there.

In all your office holding remember that co-operation is a fundamental Christian Endeavor principle, and always do what you can to associate others with you in your undertakings.

His Fortune Goes to Theosophical Cult.

Mrs. Katherine Tingley.

Already the fight for the possession of the fortune of the late A. G. Spaulding, once a great baseball pitcher and manager and later owner of sporting goods stores, has begun. For many years Mr. Spaulding was a devotee of the peculiar Theosophical cult of Mrs. Katherine Tingley in Southern California. He and Layman J. Gage, once Secretary of the Treasury, were the principal millionaires who had taken up Mrs. Tingley's ideas.

Alleging "undue influence" on the part of Mr. Spaulding's second wife, Elizabeth Churchill Spaulding, and Mrs. Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society at Point Loma, Cal., Keith Spaulding, his son, began a legal action to break the will of his father.

Mr. Spaulding died at Point Loma, Sept. 9, last, and it is alleged in the petition of the son that his father was not in his right mind at the time of his death and had not been for some time previously.

The Spaulding fortune is estimated at $1,000,000. Mr. Spaulding's second marriage took place in 1906.

Young Spaulding alleges that at the time his father married Mrs. Elizabeth Churchill she was the intimate friend of Mrs. Katherine Tingley. He says that the general belief was that Mrs.

A. G. Spaulding.

Spaulding was to be the successor of Mrs. Tingley at Point Loma.

It is alleged that the second Mrs. Spaulding persuaded her husband to take up his residence on the grounds of the Theosophical institution. The object, it is alleged, was to alienate Mr. Spaulding from his son.

Under the terms of the will Keith Spaulding was to receive $100,000. He has already received $65,000 of this amount.

Albert Spaulding, the adopted son, was to have received $100,000, but it is alleged that he has only received $1,000. All of the remainder of the estate was left to Mrs. Spaulding.

GIRLS' COMMUNITY HOMES BANISH PRUNES AND THE BLUES

RULES OF GIRLS' COMMUNITY HOMES.

Here are some facts about the community homes for girls, now becoming a national movement.

There is but one rule: "Be charitable in your speech about your fellow guests"—the other rules being formulated by the girls themselves.

Each Miss has her own bed and place for her clothes. Everything has been done to remove anything that might give a "boarding house atmosphere."

The girls pay an average of but $3 a week for clean rooms and excellent board, and no girls making more than $10 a week are admitted.

The girls dictate their own menus. They sit four at a table. Their food is of the best. They are allowed to do their washing in the basement.

They have parlor with player piano and games, reading room and dining room in which to entertain guests.

In the big flower-covered yard are trysting places between rose bushes, and spooning is encouraged, each girl being allowed to have as many callers as she desires and no restrictions placed on her as to her hours.

By a Member of the New York Settlement Workers' League.

When systematic sociology was taken up in the United States for the first time, the most serious problem that confronted the workers was the girl who makes less than $8 a week.

While in many states minimum wage laws were passed this did not materially clear the situation, as the minimum established averaged about $6 and no girl could comfortably support herself on this sum.

The social workers thereupon realized that the unmarried working girl was a problem to which they should devote their entire time to as it was manifest that she was subjected to greater temptation than any class with which they had to deal.

The idea presented itself of having these girls band together in homes and in Y. W. C. A. quarters, but this met with only partial success. The majority of girls refused to live in the homes and while the Y. W. C. A. homes have been successful still there are many girls who would not live in them.

The girls beside wanting a home atmosphere, also desired freedom from undue restraint as to the hours they must keep and a place where they might entertain callers. Even the best of girls objected to the religious homes. While the majority of them were of some faith and often visited church on Sunday they objected to a sort of religious espionage that meant bed at 9 p. m., after night prayers. They also demurred at censorship of their hours, beliefs, habits, choice of young men escorts, etc. It was therefore apparent that to reach the young woman living alone in the world, some other plan must be adopted.

NEW PLAN LAUNCHED.

After years of experimenting along this line with but slight success, a plan has just been adopted that seems to solve all the objections of the girls and give them homes that they actually learn to love. In several cities charitable women have fitted up houses where the girls may live under their own rule at $3 a week for room and board.

In St. Louis, one of the first cities to adopt this new plan, a three-story brick house with a large yard filled with roses, plants and shrubbery, was selected. The first day it was occupied by ten girls who left behind them memories living some of them four in a room and eating where best they might.

Expecting to find many hampering rules, the girls found but one—be charitable in your speech about your fellow guests. A simple rule indeed, but one if enforced would spell success for the home and prevent the small and petty quarrels that seem constant where a number of girls come together. The question of other rules and regulations was left entirely to the girls. In fact, they are a self-governing aggregation of young business women.

There are seven bedrooms in the home, each with three or more windows. Each girl has her individual bed and plenty of space for her possession. But downstairs is where they found the greatest conveniences, for three rooms are given over to their collective use. One is a parlor with a player-piano and many rolls of music. Another is the library with a reading table, magazines and books. The third is the dining room, where the girls sit four at a table. Each room is furnished neatly and harmoniously.

Throughout the home everything has been done to get away from the boarding house idea. There is no "snooping" of a landlady about the halls ready to prey upon the girl who has an electric iron under her bed of the Miss who does her week-

washing in the bathtub. There is no one to scold the girl who comes home late and has to ring the doorbell because she forgot her latch-key.

The girls are seated four at a table, again to get away from the boarding house idea. Think of the difference between having to rush to a long table where a dozen others are seated, trying their best to eat everything in sight before you get there, and sitting comfortably at an individual table with three other girl companions.

A REAL ATTRACTION.

But here is the real attraction of the home—the rule that should win any young girl's heart and make many desirous of living in such a home. The girls may have as many beaux as they want to call on them at any reasonable time they shall appoint. When the parlor fills, the late arrivals may sit in the library and if overflows others may have the dining room to themselves. But better than all for love-making are the trysting places in the yard—chairs placed between rosebushes, swings and benches.

Of course, the home believes in spooning. It is necessary and it leads to matrimony. After all that is the whole idea of the venture—to keep the girl pure and innocent until she is lead away by some desirable young man to her own home. And so love-making is encouraged, not by word of mouth, but by giving the girls broad privileges and arranging those handy little trysting places beneath the rose bushes. The settings are such that it seems that little D. Cupid himself had been permitted to arrange this important part of the girl's home life.

What could be more romantic than a pretty girl seated beneath a rosebush, the scent of the flowers, the beauty of the maiden and the soft rays of the moon inspiring love. It was a wise designer that thought of such things as an adjunct of such a home—a motherly woman that perhaps some 30 or 40 years ago sat beneath the rose bushes on some old-fashioned farm and heard the words of love.

The trysting plan has worked successfully, and the beaux of the cities have been attracted by the many desirable features of this home. For every girl living in the city by herself, with parents either dead or far away, there is some lonesome young man, living alone in a rooming house and longing for such companionship as one may find with the sweet girls of these community homes.

Again there is no harsh restriction on the lovers. There is no landlady going about slamming doors and remarking that it is high time that young girls were abed, all because the light in the parlor is burning and the gas meter in the cellar is patiently recording the amount.

NO HARSH RESTRICTIONS.

There is also the absence of that bane of all romance—little brother Willie, who either sits in the parlor and tells his sister's secrets or hides beneath the lawn bench and the next day uses evidence obtained in this place of concealment in inducing his sister into giving him a quarter to go to the picture show.

The majority of the girls living in these homes work in department stores and earn less than $10 a week. In fact, girls making more than that amount are barred as it would be a wise investment for them to board at such a home and pay but $3 a week. The girls in the home may save by doing their own washing in the basement, which has been fitted up with all necessary appliances, including an electric wringing machine and wringer.

The food served in the girls' home is of the best, for it is apparent that girls who work hard all day must be well nourished. Supplies are bought in quantities at wholesale prices.

MISS DAISY NIRDLINGER OF ST. LOUIS

kind of meat, three kinds of vegetables and dessert. Sunday's dinner includes roast meats with dressing, mashed or baked or creamed new potatoes, salad, ice tea, coffee and ice cream.

THE DAILY DIET.

Sunday is a great day in one of these homes. One of the most attractive features is that girls may sleep as late as they want and then be assured of getting breakfast. Imagine living in a boarding house and longing to sleep late, only to be awakened and told that in 15 minutes breakfast will be over. Generally this call comes about 7:30, just when a maiden who has been at the dance the night before is longing for undisturbed rest.

On arising the girls go to the kitchen and prepare their own breakfast. The big meal is served in the afternoon and the girls prepare their own luncheon in the evening, the latter rule allowing them to eat when they are hungry.

During the summer months dances are held in the parlor to the music of the player piano, while candy pullings in the kitchen are winter prospects. A reading club already has been formed by the girls and each night those who have not beaux calling, sit about in the library and sew while one of their number reads. Those who wish to write find plenty of material in the library.

Mrs. L. Burg is the "mother" in the first home tried in St. Louis, having been affectionately awarded that name by the girls. And Mrs. Burg is a real mother to the girls. Notice, she has the title of "Mrs." showing that she is qualified to manage the home, having the maternal knowledge that will benefit these girls. And to them she acts as a mother, not prying about and snooping as might the proprietor of a boarding house, but always loving and kind, keeping secrets in her heart and becoming confidential with the girls only when the opportunity is offered by her confidants opening the conversation.

Many a time she has an opportunity to offer to these girls the harboring bosom of a mother. The girl who has been censured by the floor walker, the Miss who has been jilted or disappointed—her bosom is the storehouse for all these little confidences and her most pleasant duty is that of finding a way out of the difficulty for the girls.

And how proud she is of her girls. How it pleases her to see them well dressed and recognize the glance of admiration in the eyes of boy admirers who call at the house. She aids the girls in buying materials and making dresses, she aids in remodeling and keeping these dresses in repair and she is in many ways a mother to them.

It is planned to have many more such homes in big cities and the only thing now lacking is the amount necessary to rent and furnish such places, they becoming self supporting on the small rental of $3 a week paid by the girl boarders.

MRS. HELEN GOULD SHEPARD

The menu is changed daily and an attractive feature that distinguishes the home from boarding houses is that the girls may dictate their own menus and have just what they want. Could anything be more ideal than to be allowed to dictate in your boarding house just exactly what you desire to eat?

Imagine how quickly the first council of girls at one of these homes would place an eternal ban on prunes, rice pudding and cabbage. Imagine how quickly they would elevate fresh fruit and vegetables, ice cream and pies to honor places on their menus.

A sample breakfast menu at one of these new community homes is: cereal, egg any way you want it cooked; home-baked bread, coffee, tea or cocoa. For dinner, soup, one

DEATH OF MR. J. J. HOPKINS

Well Known Wilmington Business Man Passed Away Suddenly at Home in This City Last Night.

The announcement of the sudden death of Mr. J. J. Hopkins, a well known Wilmington business man, which occurred shortly after midnight this morning at his home, No. 119 Church street, will be a great shock to his many hundreds of friends in the city and elsewhere. Mr. Hopkins was yesterday apparently as well as usual and attended to his business affairs. After retiring last night he was taken suddenly ill a few minutes before midnight and passed away within a half hour. Death was caused by heart trouble.

Drs. C. P. Bolles and John C. Wessell were summoned immediately to Mr. Hopkins' bedside and did everything possible to relieve his suffering but without avail. He became unconscious within a few minutes after the first attack.

Mr. Hopkins for many years conducted a marketing business in Wilmington, coming to this city early in life from Fayetteville, where he was born and reared. He was 56 years old. His close attention to his business and his ability brought him a large measure of success. He was interested in a number of business enterprises and was a member of the board of directors of the American National Bank, the Independent Ice Company and the Fidelity Trust & Development Co.

Mr. Hopkins was a member of the First Presbyterian church and was also affiliated with a number of fraternal orders, including the Knights of Pythias, the Royal Arcanum, the Junior Order of United American Mechanics and the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving Mr. Hopkins besides his wife are six children as follows: Mrs. Geo. C. Yoder, Hickory; Mrs. D. N. Chadwick, Wilmington; Mrs. C. S. Parle, Norfolk, Va.; Misses Marie V. and Aileen Hopkins, of Wilmington; and Mr. Cliff S. Hopkins, of this city. The bereaved family will have the tenderest sympathy of a host of friends in their sudden bereavement.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.
